$250,000 for 99 Years What Will It Cost the Country?

Lincoln Missed One Job Old Deer, Hound and Pups

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

Standard Oil has leased Broadway buildings for ninety-nine years, paying $250,000 a year net.

The owner and his descendants will get $250,000 a year, five thousand every week, doing nothing to earn it.

Standard Oil pays taxes, makes repairs, will probably put up new buildings.

Week after week, and year after year, for ninety-nine years, according to the lease, certain human beings will each year get a quarter of a million of dollars without effort, all that time able to command the efforts and intelligence of others, to the extent of a quarter of a million yearly.

The arrangement written on paper may not last ninety-nine years. The Standard Oil Company, which is to pay the rent, may not exist ninety-nine years hence. Many agreements have been made during centuries past to pay certain sums indefinitely, sometimes forever.

Did you find any payments made today, and begun nearly ninety-nine years ago? Not many.

Luckily for the world, such things written on paper are scratched off by time. The living generation tires of burdens put on it by generations that have died. That it should be so is fortunate for the world, and necessary.

To allow an individual, or group of heirs to spend $250,000 a year without work, would not be serious as regards the money. Ability to live without effort might deprive the world of service important, perhaps indispensable. That is the danger.

Abraham Lincoln tried to get a job under the government that would have paid a moderate, sufficient salary.

Had he got it he would have gone to Washington, joining the ranks of men in safe positions. He would never have been President, his power and character would not have been available to solve the problem of the Civil War.

It is a fortunate thing for America that Lincoln didn't get the job, that he was kept struggling and worried.

John Brown failed completely in his business efforts, in grain, horses and other things. If he had gone South and made money in the cotton business, you might have heard him saying, "Well, there are two sides to the slavery question. The world must have cotton, etc."

He was a business failure, made no money, therefore he had time to concentrate on his favorite thought, which was abolition of slavery.

Almost any man can succeed in spite of poverty, one in a thousand, perhaps, escapes the deadening influences of wealth. Fortunately for the world, wealth destroys in two, three or four generations, those that possess it. They do not need to think, so they stop thinking. They do not need to work, and stop working. Weakened by idleness, what they have is taken from them soon.

Fathers plan for their children an income big and safe as possible. The income may be safe, but the child protected from the necessity of work is not safe. They say he is "provided for." Actually he is three-quarters ruined.

And the income is never safe, for nothing can be so safe that a fool cannot lose it. When you make children rich without effort, ten to one you make them fools sooner or later.

Wealth deprives them of hard work, that builds character. It buys for them flattery and dull self-approval.

One rich man in ten thousand, perhaps, in spite of inherited wealth, does real work. Even he nearly always is handicapped by flattery, not earned, for one Marcus Aurelius' history tells of many rois fainéants.

You know the story of the old deer hound, that loved his puppies. She caught many deer, more than the puppies could eat, enclosed the deer within a high fence that the deer could not jump and put the puppies in with the deer. "Help yourselves, my children," said he, "you will not race over rough stones, across mountains and through valleys wearing yourselves out as I have done."

He closed his eyes, a peaceful, proud old deer hound, and his puppies died of the mange. They needed exercise. That's what happens often to the sons of rich men.

They die of a mental mange; their brains lack exercise.

WILSON ENDS COAL PRICE CONTROL

CONFESSION OF MAN WHO SANK LUSITANIA

ENDS COAL CONTROL APRIL 1

President Gives Warning to Operators Against Profiteering

By International News Service

Washington, March 23.—President Wilson today made public a letter he has written to the coal miners and operators, in which he declares that the majority report of the bituminous coal commission is the one upon which the new wage agreement between the miners and operators must be based.

The President urged that the miners and the operators meet in conference at the earliest possible moment and draw a new wage agreement.

The President in his letter declared that on and after April 1 all government fixed prices on coal would be suspended and that no further efforts will be made to regulate prices. He gives warning, however, to the operators against profiteering. Because the report of the commission was not unanimous it had no power to fix prices, the President stated.

The majority report, which the President supports, recommends an increase of 24 cents a ton to tonnage workers, the new wage to be effective until March 31, 1922. The minority report concurs in this provision.

For day labor the majority report makes an award of an increase of $1 a day for men and 53 cents a day for boys. The minority report asks for an increase of $1.35 a day for men and 75 cents for boys. Both reports agree to an increase of 20 per cent. for yardage workers.

The majority report continues the eight-hour day.

Figured in dollars, the increase called for in the majority report, is approximately $95,000,000 in excess of the 14 per cent. advance that was proposed by Dr. Garfield last December. This means a total increase in the wage pay rolls of the bituminous miners or $200,000,000 this year as compared with the cost of labor in the mines for the year ending October 31, when the coal strike was called.

Predict Coal Will Reach $15 in a Few Months

Hard coal will be selling for $15 a ton within a few months, and with no relief in sight.

So say the Boston coal dealers. They declare that soft coal will undoubtedly sell for $12 a ton this year, and that President Wilson alone can find a remedy.

One Boston dealer, just returned from the bituminous fields, describes the situation as desperate and hope of lower prices this Summer without foundation.

318,000 Filed Federal Income Returns

Despite the fact that $18,000 federal income tax returns were made this year, against 267,600 last year, Acting Internal Revenue Collector Andrew J. Casey today stated that the amount of money derived this year would not be as great as that of last year, because the rate of interest on the tax had been reduced to 4 per cent. this year from 6 per cent.

He stated that there were 15,000 more returns made this year in class 1040-A, which includes those receiving less than $5,000 income.

THREE SLAIN IN MINERS' BATTLE

Kentucky Workers and Special Detectives Fight When Boy Is Slapped

By International News Service.

Middlesboro, Ky., March 23.—Three men were killed and four wounded Saturday night in a pitched battle between miners of the Harlan County coal fields and special detectives hired by the mineowners to prevent their unionizing.

The trouble, brewing for months, came to a head when one of the detectives slapped the son of Bud Taylor, a miner. The father took up the quarrel, and, it is alleged, was shot dead by the detective. Other miners fired on him and general rioting followed.

Deputy Sheriff Burkes was one of those killed.

The detectives and guards were sent away in an effort to avoid further trouble, but the miners organized and are searching for them. More trouble is feared.

Carpentier Sure He Can Beat Dempsey

New York, March 23.—Georges Carpentier, the champion heavyweight of Europe, landed here today from the French liner La Savoie and immediately declared that he was anxious to meet Jack Dempsey at any time, at any place, preferably as soon as possible.

"And I think I can defeat Dempsey in six rounds," declared the Frenchman. "Dempsey is the rushing style of fighter with whom I have always been successful in the past."

Carpentier was met at the dock by Tex Rickard, the promoter, and Jack Curley, under whose tutelage Carpentier will tour the country in some theatrical engagements. Several hundred fight fans, movie men, promoters, actors, managers and others formed a reception committee for the Frenchman and gave him a rousing welcome.

"I am very happy to come to the United States," he said. "I have always had great admiration and respect for the Americans.

"But why don't you ask me if I am happily married?" he queried through an interpreter and answered the question himself, saying:

"I don't believe any one is happier than I am today."

Asked what he thought of American boxers, he said:

"American boxers are very aggressive, and some of them are very clever. I would rather box a good American fighter, like Dempsey, than a poor English fighter."

Carpentier was greatly impressed when he saw the Statue of Liberty and the mountainous skyline of lower New York.

"Ah," he exclaimed, doffing his hat to Liberty, "it is wonderful. I have never seen such a seaport and never so many ships in the harbor."

Camera men and reporters soon got on the champion's nerves. "You keep me smiling so much my jaws ache," he said in French. "I'm getting weary wearing this smile."

M. Descamps, manager of Carpentier, announced that just before sailing from France he signed a new contract with Charles B. Cochrane, the British producer, which binds the French champion to box for him until December 31 of this year.

The contract stipulates that Cochrane must secure Dempsey's services. Descamps also said that he had received attractive offers from Tex Rickard, Dominick Tortorich, Billy Gibson and William Fox, but had answered them all alike, telling them they must sign Dempsey.

DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER ARGUMENT ENDS IN COURT

Following an argument and demonstration on the respective merits of Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier, Charles Akerland was in Municipal Court today charged with drunkenness, and Godrich Cornier, with assault and battery. Akerland's case was filed, and Cornier was placed on probation.

FIRED ONLY ONE TORPEDO; FLED AS LINER WENT DOWN

By International News Service. Copyright, 1920, by the International News Service. Publication Rights in Great Britain Reserved.

Berlin, March 3 (By Special Courier to New York).—Like a voice from vaults of the dead, the official story of the destruction of the Lusitania—written on that historic afternoon of May 7, 1915, by the German submarine commander, whose hand directed the fateful shot—is here given to the world. It is a tense, passionless document, jotted down in brief sentences within the tiny cabin of a steel terror of the deep by Captain Lieutenant Schwieger, who commanded the German U-20. This arch fiend is dead, but his posthumous story, "HOW I SANK THE LUSITANIA," exists in the archives of the German navy. It is written over his signature and the very lack of sentiment in the epochal narrative stands in weird contrast to the shock which the sinking of the Lusitania with the loss of 1,195 lives gave to civilization.

Schwieger, the log shows, had been ordered to the Irish Sea to harass shipping off Liverpool. On account of the vast network of barricades erected by the British navy across the North Channel, he started to sail all the way around Ireland, but his fuel ran short and he decided to disregard his orders and return to his base. He had started back to Wilhmelmshaven when he suddenly met the Lusitania.

The submarine commander was surprised to see a giant passenger liner steaming unconcernedly eastward past the south coast of Ireland. Schwieger jotted down a criticism in his official diary. He thought it was bad judgment on the part of the British Admiralty to let the great Cunard liner pass through St. George's Channel instead of North Channel (between Ireland and Scotland).

"It remains inexplicable why the Lusitania was not sent through North Channel," wrote Schwieger in his log a few hours after the Lusitania had been sent to the bottom.

Schwieger tells of his vigil at the periscope. A mighty liner is reflected in the mirror. It has four great funnels and is evidently one of the floating palaces of the Atlantic.

The U-20 submerges and plunges ahead at high speed to intercept the doomed ship. The submarine rises to see the greyhound steaming ahead at twenty-two sea miles an hour. There is a sharp command. A great "G" torpedo is fired at 700 meters range. It strikes. A gaping hole is torn in the proud liner on the starboard side behind the bridge.

A terrific explosion follows. There is a second explosion and the debris and water spurt skyward. The ship begins to heel over. There is tremendous excitement on board. It appears that the officers have lost their heads. They cannot get the lifeboats launched. Another shot? Schwieger is tempted. But adds in his log:

"I couldn't have fired a second torpedo into this throng of humanity attempting to save themselves anyway."

U-BOAT CAPTAIN DECORATED 2 YEARS AFTER HE SANK LUSITANIA

These are official facts. They are contained in the official diary which Schwieger utilized as his formal report of the voyage to the great staff of the imperial German navy.

There are twelve pages of typewritten manuscript with accompanying maps and charts. It looks unimportant bound in a simple wrapping of blue manila covers. But it is history.

Schwieger's terse account, intended only for official eyes, constitutes and brands as false Germany's subsequent announcement that the captain who sank the Lusitania did not know he was firing on a passenger vessel.

But Schwieger did not know until approximately ten minutes after the torpedo was fired that the stricken ship was the Lusitania. No stern was flying and it was not until he saw in gold letters on the liner's bow "Lusitania" that he knew the identity of the vessel.

SECOND BLAST WITHIN SHIP.

From the standpoint of settling all theories, probably one of the most valuable revelations in the log is its proof that the second mysterious explosion came from within the Lusitania itself. Schwieger did not attempt to define actually what caused this, but suggested "boiler, coal or powder."

It is significant to note that although the German embassy at Washington had notified travelers set to sail on the Lusitania, the U-20 was not under specific orders to sink that ship.

The inscription upon the little paper-bound volume containing Schwieger's log follows:

"WAR DIARY.

"H. M. U.—Boat U-20 for the time from March 16, 1915, to August 31, 1915.

Commander Captain-Lieutenant Schwieger."

Schwieger thus tells of the start:

"April 20, 1915, 7 a. m. Put to sea from Emden on mission to Irish sea. 10-10:30 a. m. Try a test dive. 12 noon. Steer carefully to avoid suspected mine fields. Afternoon spent trying out radio equipment, and in sending and receiving messages from H. M. S. Arcona. 8 p. m. Pass several fishing boats flying Dutch flag on Dogger bank."

Schwieger devotes his log for May 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 to accounts of the weather and his flights from squadrons of patrolling warcraft. He tells of efforts to attack merchant ships. On May 6 he was about to open fire against a vessel which turned out to be a neutral—the Swedish ship Hilbernia.

SANK EARL OF LATHAM.

On May 9 he sank the Earl of Latham, of Liverpool, and turned the crew adrift in small boats.

Continuing the log Schwieger wrote:

"May 6, 12:30 a. m., North Atlantic. Wind southeast, one, swell southeast, two. Thick for. Inflated tanks. Took look around. Visibility 20 meters. 12:40 p. m., went on at 24 meters depth. 4:40 a. m. Inflated tanks. Took look around. Visibility no greater, therefore, went on at 24 meter depth. 8:40 a. m., intermittently thicker fog. Tanks blown out as it has cleared up somewhat. Trip continued above water with empty diving tanks.

"A very large steamer sighted starboard ahead. Drove at her for attack above surface as there was no danger for the boat to be rammed or shot with this poor visibility. Steamer turned off hard when sighting U-20. Further pursuit above surface does not seem to me to be dangerous in the fog. Held toward the steamer and shot at her with artillery. After we have hit her twice she disappears for a short space in the fog.

S.S. CANDIDATE SECOND VICTIM.

"When the target again becomes visible shot at her with shells. 11 a. m.—Clean bow shot (bronze torpedo) two and one-half meter depth adjustment at 500 meter range. Shot hits engine room with little effect. Ship settles somewhat astern, then remains lying in that position. On this account make toward her and fire with guns at stern waterline. Thus ascertain that the painted over name at stern is "Candidate" of Liverpool. Now sinking slowly. 11:40 a. m.—New steamer on horizon following converging course. Steamer soon disappears in fog bank. 12:10 p. m.—Fair visibility. Quick dive because vessel comes out of fog, square off port. Tried with high speed to get bow shot position. Attack given up. Vessel was a passenger liner of White Star line of about 14,000 tons. Carried no flag. 3:48 p. m.—Weather clears. Steamer comes into sight port ahead. Advance to attack. 2:03 p. m.—Clean bow shot. Torpedo hit forecastle, crew immediately quits ship. Ship was an Englishman of about 4,000 tons. Name painted over; no stern flag."

S.S. CENTURION IS NO. 5.

"May 8 (continued), 8:13 p. m.—Thick fog."

"May 6 (continued), 3:15 p. m. Submerged to 24 meters and steered 240 degrees so as to hold into sea. Thick fog. A further advance towards Liverpool, the proper district for operations, is given up for the following reasons:

"(1) Because of thick fog during the last two days, of calmness and the reading of the barometer, it is not to be expected that it will get clearer during the next few days.

"(2) In the foggy weather a sighting on time of the strong enemy watch, fishing steamers and destroyers, in the Georges Channel and Irish Sea, is impossible resulting in continued danger and under water travel.

"(3) Nights not quite clear, watching above surface outside of Liverpool for outbound transports is out of the question, as accompanying destroyers cannot be made out, and it is to be supposed that eventual transports are leaving Liverpool at night and are accompanied.

"(4) On the trip up Georges Channel the time of fuel oil has already been so great that a return to Liverpool around the south of Ireland would not be possible and I will start on the return trip when two-fifths of the fuel oil has been consumed, anything, if possible, the route through the North Channel, because of the kind of watch the U-29 met with up there on the last long distance voyage.

"(6) There are only three more torpedoes at our disposal, two of which, if possible, I will save for the return trip.

"It is decided to remain south of the entrance to the Bristol Channel and to attack steamers until two-fifths of the oil has been consumed, especially as here are greater opportunities for attacking with less danger of counter-effect than in the Irish Sea—near Liverpool.

"7.10 p. m.—Thick fog. Went to 11 meters, then inflated tanks; took a look around. Visibility 30 meters.

"Therefore went to 24 meters and kept into the sea during the night so as to be able to load up the batteries in the morning far away from the fire ships.

"May 7, 6 a. m., North Atlantic. Thick fog, then sunshine. Wind north, three. Blew out tanks. Course 270 degrees; loaded. Now and then it is clearing up. 10 a. m.

"As the fog does not lift I decide now to begin the return trip in order to push outside into the northern channel in good weather.

"11 a. m. It clears up. A fishing steamer (watch vessel?) comes towards us from the land; it is yet far off. 11:30 a. m. Very good visibility. Steamer making but little headway; will go to eleven meters again at 1 o'clock and have a look around.

SIGHTS BRITISH WARSHIPS.

"12:50 p. m. A ship with very powerful engines is passing over the boat. When the boat comes to eleven meters it turns out that the vessel which ran over the U-20 ten minutes ago is an English warship; old small cruiser (Pelorous type) with two masts, two funnels. Travel after cruiser to be able to attack it when changing course.

"The cruiser runs a zig-zag course at high speed and by and bye passes out of sight in the direction of Queenstown.

"1:45 p. m.—Visibility very good. Very fine weather. Therefore pump out tanks. Continue trip. Waiting on the heights of Queenstown does not seem worth while.

"2 p. m.—Right ahead appear four funnels and two masts of a steamer with course vertical to us. (She steered from south-southwest, coming toward Gallerhead.) Ship is made out to be large passenger steamer.

"2.05 p. m.—Submerged to eleven meters and traveled with high speed on converging course toward steamer, hoping she would change course to starboard along the Irish coast.

"2.05 p. m.—The steamer turns starboard, directs her course towards Queenstown and made possible an approach for a shot. Ran at high speed until 2 p. m. in order to attain a position directly ahead.

"2.10 p. m.—Clean bow shot from 700 meters range (6, torpedo, nine meters depth adjustment), cutting angle 90 degrees. Estimated speed 12 sea miles.

LUSITANIA TORPEDOED.

"Shot hits starboard side right behind bridge. An unusually heavy detonation follows, with a very strong explosion cloud (high in air over first smokestack).

"The explosion of the torpedo there must have been a second explosion (boilers, coal or powder). The superstructure overpoint struck and the high bridge are rent asunder, fire breaks out, smoke envelopes the high bridge. The ship stops immediately and quickly heels to starboard, at the same time diving deep at the bow. It has the appearance as if it will capsize very soon.

"Great confusion arises on the ship; the boats are being made clear and part being let down into the water. In this they must have lost their heads, many boats crowded full.

"The boats were let down, how first or stern first, into the water, so that they were immediately dashed full (sic). Fewer lifeboats can be made clear on the port side than on the starboard, on the slant of the boat. The ship blows off. In front appears the name "Lusitania," in gold letters.

"The stacks were painted black; no stern flag was raised. She was running at a speed at 20 sea miles. 2:25 p. m.—As it seems the vessel will keep afloat only a short time, I submerge to 24 meters and put to sea.

"I could not have fired a second torpedo into this throng of humanity attempting to save themselves, anyway.

"4:15 p. m. Went to 11 meters and took a look about. In the distance astern are drifting a number of lifeboats. Nothing more is to be seen of the Lusitania. The wreck must lie: Old Head of Kinsale lightHouse, in 358 degrees P. N., 14 sea miles away; at a depth of about 90 meters (27 sea miles from Queenstown and 51 degrees 22.6 north and 8.21 west. The shore and lighthouse were to be seen quite distinctly.

"6:20 p. m.—On observation, port ahead, large steamer in sight with course on Fastnet rock. Attain an advanced position at high speed to get a stern shot.

CUNARD FREIGHTER ESCAPES.

"5:05 p. m.—Stern angle shot at 90 degrees on 500-metre range. Estimated cutting angle 90 degrees. Conditions for whole shot were very favorable, a miss out of the question if the torpedo had the right course. Torpedo missed.

"As the periscope out under the water for a while after the shot unfortunately it could not be determined what caused the miss. The torpedo left the torpedo tube properly, and it either did not run or went at the wrong angle. Wrong insertion in the tube was impossible, because the torpedo officer himself was astern. The steamer was a freighter of the Cunard line, one thick red stack, two masts, no stern flag, about 7,000 tons gross.

"Probably did not notice the torpedo as it held to its course."

(It is curious to note that Schwieger was more concerned because one of his torpedoes had missed its target than he was over the fact that he had just sunk a great passenger liner and had departed from the spot leaving hundreds of persons struggling for their lives.)

"May 7 (continued), 5:15 p. m. Submerged to twenty-four meters and traveled to sea. 6:15 p. m., pumped out; loaded; trip continued. Round about are occasionally visible six smoke clouds from very large inbound and outbound steamers. It is remarkable that especially today so much traffic should be found here, although on the day before two large vessels were sunk south of St. George's Channel.

"It seems inexplicable anyway why the Lusitania was not sent through the North Channel. The district South of Ireland from Fastnet Rock up to Georges Channel between 30 and 50 miles from the coast will remain one of the best regions for the commercial war, for the torpedo cannot go past here at night if they want to go into the Irish Sea.

"A convoy of destroyers will hardly take place at sea; therefore, the counter-effect will be more pleasant to bear here and lighter than in the vicinity of harbors or the ships.

"It is urgently recommended, however, that boats which are to operate here be equipped only with 6 torpedoes, as many larger vessels are traveling here against which a bronze torpedo would be too little effect. For the ships are now always sure to have their bulkheads and loading hatches closed.

"3:20 p. m.—Good visibility. Return trip continued; far distant from coast so as not to be delayed by patrol boats. The last torpedo, a stern tube, will be saved for the return trip."

RETURNS TO BASE.

The log for May 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 is taken up with incidents on the return of the U-20 to Wilhelmshaven.

Schwieger wound up that part of his diary relating to the Lusitania voyage with May 13 and the later entries refer to another ship.

Under the heading, "Miscellaneous" he gave considerable technical data about the voyage, such as the fact that the U-20 made 2,606 sea miles, of which 220 sea miles were submerged. He praises Pilot Lanz for his wide knowledge of British ship conditions.

It was nearly two years after the destruction of the Lusitania that Schwieger was decorated. Then the highest honor within the gift of the German military machine was bestowed upon him—the insignia of "Pour le Merite"—which was granted only for extraordinary bravery and heroism, shown on repeated occasions.

Captain-Lieutenant Schwieger was last of sen in 1917. On November 9 of that year he put out in the U-88 and was never heard of again.

Only One Torpedo Was Launched at Liner

By International News Service. Copyright 1920 by the International News Service, Publication Rights in Great Britain Reserved.

A photographic copy of the official log of Captain Lieutenant Schwieger, commander of the German submarine U-20, which sank the Lusitania, is today in possession of the International News Service.

This document, which describes one of the most tragic incidents in history, shows that Schwieger was not under specific orders to sink the Lusitania. He was on his return to his base, after an assignment to harass shipping off Liverpool, when the Lusitania was encountered.

Schwieger knew he was sinking a giant passenger liner. But he did not know it was the Lusitania until after the fatal shot was fired.

Only one torpedo was launched, and Schwieger described the emotions which prevented him from shooting again into the struggling mass of humanity.

Schwieger's official log ranks as one of the most important papers in the history of the world's greatest war, and is here revealed for the first time.

MRS. RANDALL THREATENED TO KILL BLEYER AND SELF 6 MONTHS AGO

FOUGHT TO KEEP HIM FROM GOING BACK TO WIFE

Chicago, March 23.—Ruth Randall, deliberately wrote in her diary that she would kill Captain Clifford Bleyer and then take her own life just six months before their dead bodies were found together in the Lake Park avenue apartment.

Her diary indicates at this period that she has grown calloused to her life with Bleyer, although she had terrible mental agony when she learns that he has lied to her and that there is "another woman."

She wrote six months before the tragedy that her diary was for others to read—"after"—which clearly indicates that rather than permit her "soul mate" to desert her she would deprive her of his affection she would end both their lives.

RUTH RANDALL'S DIARY. CHAPTER XI.

October, 1919—We moved at No. 2601 Lake Park avenue. Moved in Tuesday last week. Andrea moved to her flat also last week. I have been alwaysing for nearly two weeks.

Cliff away all night in Milwaukee Tuesday and has gone out North three or four times. Left here at 10:30. I was ill. Went to Edna's and for home at 10:20. Cliff left a telegram at the hotel with collars and shirts and shaving things. He came back at 12:30, and was only a half after he had phoned, saying he would see me tomorrow.

The next time he goes like that I won't be alive when he returns. If he ever does. What is the use of being unhappy? He hardly spoke this morning, never touched me, does nothing.

October 12 (Sunday, 1 p. m.)—Cliff left me an hour ago to go North. Released for Cliff's return since Thursday. I am ready to collapse.

Sometimes I think I can go on, but always in mind is the thought of leaving this world.

TAKE CLIFF WITH HER.

Just two days ago I thought of taking Cliff with me.

I am writing this deliberately while my colored mammy is here near me counting the dimes.

(Editor's Note—This is October 12. She did not kill him until after.)

I am conscious of the terrible madness of such a plan, but I cannot go on.

Cliff still has a few shirts and shaving things at the flat in the Lake Park. He took Thursday night satchel. So took to Andrea's apartment, and this morning said he had better bring that satchel back, and he told me he had already mentioned it staying out there some "two or three or four nights a week to see that child."

I cannot have him all to myself. He sees that Andrea has everything, and if there is anything she wants I have it. I got my hats on mother's charge account. They are the last for yet. Nothing said except once about Winter clothes for me. I'm the goat, and I'm tired.

This is all written for others to read—after—I wonder if I will ever.

October 15, 1919—Cliff and Al here. Cliff lay in den, unpleasant. Called me awful names.

October 16—Write to Cecile suggesting trip to Europe with her. Cliff said at breakfast that he would spend the night out North if his room is ready.

FEELS SHE IS SLIGHTED.

October 18—Cliff home for dinner. Said he was glad to be back here again. That made up for all the unhappiness I had had.

He has a new hat and new shoes and new coat, three new suits, a bunch of shirts and ties and he says he is broke.

I got a black velvet dress the other day. I'm fortunate in that line to well for him. Selfishness is unbearable. Cliff getting so much for himself and nothing but a single thing for me, and yet I am fool enough to want him. He has none of his fine suits here and goes on for days and a few shirts.

I told Cliff last night that the next time he called that name to me he would get shot.

I laughed and he laughed, but it is no laughing matter.

October 22—Cliff left at noon and stayed North all night. Going to Milwaukee tonight. I was so happy when he got back Monday night. He said he was always glad to get back here.

October 24—Adrian, Cliff's cousin, here. Cliff out North three nights, last Thursday, Sunday and Wednesday this week. In Milwaukee yesterday; with me last night and gone tonight with Adrian. I sit here and cry in my loneliness.

FORFEITED LOVE.

He says I have forfeited all claim to his love. He did love me, but never will again. He never has.

There is only one thought in my mind. To leave it all. Conditions now are unbearable. I cannot change them and the only thing for me to do is to get away from them. Hope is a wonderful thing. I keep on hoping things will be better. Started Pearl La Sage beauty treatment yesterday, my brother's birthday. To rode out to No. 718. I do not understand why he did not introduce me to Adrian. Dined with another three days this week. Gee!

October 29—Cliff came about 12:30 a. m. Sunday with violets. He stayed until 1 o'clock and I went to the opera and heard Scotti and he went out again and came back at midnight after putting Adrian on a train. Will not see Cliff all day today. Goes to Milwaukee tonight, and again last night North. Oh; I am unhappy living this way. Started drinking cream Monday and face looks fuller already and beauty treatment whitens. I'll perk up yet, maybe.

PEARS WIFE'S INFLUENCE.

November 2—Well, my Cliff came home Saturday night for dinner, and I had not seen him since Wednesday morning. We were talking about orange marmalade. I said I could made it. "Everything but one thing," said. "and that is you love me," and my Cliff said, "I love my little Ruthy. I have my little Ruthy in my own way." It was good to hear him say that, even if he didn't mean it. He is not very strong and seem worn out. Sometimes I think he and Andrew, or another woman.

November 11—Cliff home on Armistice Saturday; left Sunday a. m. Pauline ill, so he went to see her last night. I seen him so little he almost seems like a stranger when I see him. My beloved husband my more. I have been bearing up well for a week. Not a tear since Cliff left Saturday noon. When I left the train I crossed the tracks and cried over my troubles to God and the moonlight.

I knelt down and prayed that Cliff may be in mine once more. He is good, brings me flowers and is kind, but he is not all mine.

THREE HAPPY DAYS.

November 16, Sunday, 11:30 p. m.—In bed with all the papers to read yet. Cliff with me Tuesday night for dinner. Left Wednesday for Milwaukee. Here Friday and Saturday and left today. So he is with me three days, North three days and in Milwaukee one day.

We had a talk this morning and Friday night. Said he would rather be here all the time, but he has a duty to perform.

He is going to see less of me as the time comes, and finally it will be only once a week.

Stella and Gene have been together nearly nine years and he said to Cliff that I could see just that ahead of me. He said. No; that he would not be with me for that time. He said he did not intend to spend the rest of his life with me. I said that he would be very sorry when he was given me. Oh, the end seems very clear.

November 20—Cliff just left. He evidently does not care. He won't be here tonight, and I'm so lonesome. Even he is here he is not.

November 21.—Well, at last I know Cliff does not care for me. The Fall of the year is a bad time for me. It is now and was in Winter last year and also the year before. On account of a letter to my agent I received from Cliff at $.25. He was not there. At 6:30 either Andrea got in town or Cliff had not been with Andrea last night or his father would not have phoned me. Cliff's mother said he had just left and was there with a man, Gino said.

TRAPPED BY LIFE LIE.

I got Cliff after 10 a. m. he said Kraus was in town and I thought he might have been with him at Gino's, but why stay away all night? I suffered all day and met Cliff at the office at 6.

He came up and kissed me the first thing. He looked badly and was wearing the same shirt and tie as when he left me yesterday morning.

I sat opposite him in the office and took a Benadin to deaden the aching him He. He said he was North but gave me evasive answers all the time. I begged him to tell me the truth as he has always. Said he would tell me if he was interested in any other woman. That doubt I had had all day was gone, but when I asked him again Kraus got in town Cliff said, "This morning, at 8 or 9."

I knew he had not been with him.

He kissed me on his lips and we talked all the way to the Annex where he was to attend a banquet. I have got to live another day, but at last I know. I left him at 6:30. Dined at Roma and talked to Benny. Was in bed at 9:30. I phoned Gino and said I had been with Cliff and lost a comb that night. Gino knew. No, I was not there, he was with a man. I insisted and he wanted my name and I could go to his room and he hung up.

WIFE MAY BECOME WIDOW.

Jealousy (?) I'm not jealous but I will not have my love made light of. It would be very hard for Andree to become a widow and Paulette become a mother, but she may better have none than the kind she has.

Oh, when I think of—. The phone just rang. Cliff has finished his banquet and is coming out.

November 22—Saturday, 8:10 a. m. Cliff came in a few minutes after 11. He lay on the lounge and I looked at him. He told me it was none of my business what he does. I'm miserable. This is the last straw, and to have him torture and lie about it. He said again he was home with Andree, I pretended to believe him.

I told Cliff he can have with her, but he will not take seriously anything I say. I made up to him last night because I wanted him to come here again when I am ready to take care of him.

I am ill. I know now that Cliff has been untrue right along. I have told fact and Sidney and I would do, but they think I am fooling.

(To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

ARREST EAST BOSTON MAN AS HOUSEBREAKER

John Wloka, 35, of Chelsea street, East Boston, who is alleged to have broken into a home in Lawrence to steal four canary birds, was arrested today by Inspectors Wolf and Orkeil of Headquarters and turned over to the Lawrence police. Wloka, it is alleged, has several sentences to his credit, and has served terms for burglary. He had several false keys when arrested.

Teacher Has One Day Off in 38 Years

MISS MINA J. WENDELL.

One day off in thirty-eight years is the school record of Miss Mina J. Wendell, principal of the Morse School, Newtonville. Miss Wendell has taught there since 1882, after ten years' teaching in Woburn. The "day off" was necessitated by illness, but it won't happen again, Miss Wendell declares. "I am starting a new record," she said. "The next thirty-eight years will be unbroken."

INCREASE IN PULLMAN CAR RATES IMPENDS

Washington, March 23.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today granted the Pullman Company permission to file a petition for an increase of 20 per cent. in Pullman car rates.

Secret of Shattered Romance Revealed

New York, March 23.—New York's most exclusive social circles were split into two hostile factions today, following the revelation for the first time of the reason for the sudden breaking of the engagement of the late Captain Carlo Leopold Belloni of the Italian army and Miss Harriette A. Post a year ago.

Miss Post is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Post of New York, a close chum of Mrs. Vincent Astor and sister of George B. Post, Jr., who married Miss Irene Langhorne Gibson, sister of the late Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson and niece of Lady Astor. Captain Belloni died broken-hearted a month ago in Italy.

The first faction is headed by the Posts and their relatives and friends, and the second group is led by the Hon. Alfred Anson, brother of the Earl of Lichfield, as well as two former Mrs. John J. Emery, one of the wealthiest American women, and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., a sister-in-law of Captain Belloni.

Following the death of Captain Belloni, it developed that when he was in his teens he had contracted a civil marriage with a young American girl.

Mr. Post learned of this episode in Captain Belloni's life and when the latter was in Italy abruptly broke off the engagement. There followed a flood of rumors, culminating in an article in a society periodical that Mr. Post took action after learning that Belloni had served as a waiter in Boston.

LEGION CALLS FOR $1.50 A DAY

Fifty Cents More Favored, If Aid Is Needed to Secure Farms

By CHARLES O. POWER.

Washington, March 23.—This is the program of beneficial legislation for former service men and women which was adopted by the American Legion today and which will be submitted to Congress tomorrow:

A cash bonus of $1.50 a day for every day of actual service between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918.

Financial aid in the securing of a farm at the rate of $2 a day for each day of service in the same period of time.

Financial aid in the securing of a home at the rate of $1.50 a day.

Vocational education for every person desiring it with compensation of $1.50 a day for every day of war service.

The immediate passage of the Wason bill, the principal feature of which calls for the payment in lump sum or the instalments within three years of term of insurance.

This kind was thus taken out during the war and is payable in monthly instalments within twenty years. In a general way the Wason bill liberalizes the Sweet bill, providing for more and better medical and hospital treatment for former soldiers and sailors following their discharge.

Colonel Edward L. Logan and Colonel John F. J. Herbert have been in the discussion of the conference and it is largely due to them that the cash bonus plan was adopted. Through their efforts the men of the old National Guard have been saved from unfair discrimination.

It is believed by Legion officials that the claims will be so diverse that the four-option plan that the bill will be gradual and will not be such a drain on a demand for only cash payments.

EXPECT DELAWARE TO RATIFY SUFFRAGE

Dover, Del., March 23.—Ratification of the woman suffrage amendment by the Delaware Legislature seemed practically assured today, making the seventh State ratification necessary to include the amendments as part of the Federal Constitution.

A caucus of the Republican members was summoned this forenoon and this was to be followed by the reading of a special message from Governor Townsend to both Houses of the Legislature, in joint session, urging the passage of the measure.

United States Senator Ball and Representative Layton were said to be "applying the party whip" to bring the recalcitrants into line.

BALK HUB GIRL'S ELOPEMENT

Baltimore Taxi Overhauled After Chase and Mother Hurries Daughter to Boston

Baltimore, March 23.—Somewhere in Boston, Miss Emily Gleason, daughter of a well-to-do Hub grocer and a freshman at Hood College, probably sits weeping under the watchful eye of her mother. Everything because her plans to become a "happy bride" have been thwarted.

In this city John White, a mechanical engineer of Philadelphia, and would-be groom is thinking unpleasant things about adamant and "meddling" members of the Hood College faculty, who smashed Cupid's well-laid plans.

Dr. Charles Wehler, head of the college, scented a romance as result of numerous bouquets and billets-doux received by Miss Gleason. He wrote to her mother in Boston, and she hastened to this city. Miss Gleason learned of her presence in the college and fled in a taxi to meet White at the railroad station.

President Wehler dispatched a motorcycle in pursuit. The taxi was overtaken and Miss Gleason kindly but firmly brought back to her mother. Her belongings were packed and Mrs. Gleason hurriedly took her daughter back to Boston.

Flirt romance.

WOMAN FINED $20 ON CHARGE OF STEALING $11

In Dorchester Court today Dora Drake of Blomfield street, was fined with the larceny of $11 from Sadie Solohin of No. 445 Geneva avenue. She was fined $20 and appealed. Philip Ginsberg of Nightingale street, accused of assaulting Max Billsney of Lorne street, was fined $20. He appealed. Walter Robinson of Draper street and Thomas Kennedy, a boy, of Julian street, were charged with the larceny of pigeons from Margaret McShane of Neponset avenue. Robinson was fined $15 and appealed. The boy was fined $15 and appealed. The boy was judged a delinquent. He appealed.

PLOT CHARGED IN SCIENCE TRIAL

Ogden Says First Members Are Being "Used" to Reopen Lawsuit

Charges that the First Members of the Christian Science Church were being "used" by the church directors to reopen their lawsuit with the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Company, featured the hearing before Judge DeCourcy in Supreme Court today.

The charges were submitted in an affidavit submitted by David H. Ogden during the hearing on the petition of Mrs. Emily Hulin of Brooklyn, a First member, to be allowed to intervene in the lawsuit. Mr. Ogden is one of the trustees.

The movement of the surviving First members to intervene was started by a committee controlled by Martin Jackson of New York, Mr. Ogden declared. He charged Jackson was until December an employe of the directors and in their confidence. He declared the First members had no additional evidence to give, and that their interests were not jeopardized, as they maintained.

Attorney Charles F. Choate appeared for Mrs. Hulin. He said the interests of the First members were threatened, and that continual bickering between trustees and directors threatened the entire structure of Christian Science.

Intervention would mean a speedy end of litigation, and a restoration of authority to the people to whom it belongs, Choate intimated.

Attorney Choate and Myles M. Dawson of New York appeared for Mrs. Hulin and associates. E. A. Krauthoff of Washington, D. C., appeared for Scientists of that city. Sherman L. Whipple appeared for the trustees, General Frank L. Streeter of Concord, N. H., and W. G. Thompson for A. V. Dittemore and former Governor John L. Bates and W. L. Dane for the church directors.

Attorney Choate said Mrs. Hulin's action was made necessary by the action of Judge Frederic Dodge, sitting in equity in deciding the directors had no power to discharge a trustee of the publishing company.

Attorney Choate declared the directors got such right by vote of the First members, and declared that fact was introduced at the hearing before Judge Dodge. The First members did not feel their rights were considered in the present litigation, Choate said.

Attorney Krauthoff in fighting the petition of the original members of the church against the bringing of the action was a violation of the church manual. He was supported in his contention by Attorney Whipple, who added that propaganda was being circulated against the trustees by the directors.

GIRLS ACCUSED TWO OF MONEY CHANGING GAME

Ernest Smith of Parker Hill avenue, and Arthur Forsaith of Rutland square, were in court today, charged with larceny at the Parker Hill police station by means of fraud in changing money. The girl cashiers, whom they are alleged to have victimized, are Miss McKinnon, Ida Bennett and Alice Gordon. The cases were continued.

GEORGIA GIRL BRIDE OF MARSHALL C. BALFOUR

Marlboro, March 23.—Word was received here of the marriage of Marshall C. Balfour, Tech, '18, to Miss Margaret Hunter of Macon, Ga., daughter of one of the wealthiest families in the South. The couple are on their way to Switzerland, where Mr. Balfour will assume the duties of major in the Red Cross. He is a son of H. T. Balfour of this town. The bride met Mr. Balfour when she was doing welfare work.

McCALL DEFINITELY IN RACE AS DELEGATE

Former Governor McCall today definitely entered the race for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention when his nomination papers were filed with the Secretary of State. About 2,000 signatures were filed. Russell A. Wells, Cambridge, pledged to support General Wood also filed at-large papers today.

MISSIONARIES ARRIVE IN BOSTON FROM INDIA

Missionaries from Turkey, Asia Minor and India, with an admiral of the Norwegian navy, made up the majority of the 107 passengers on the British steamship City of Lahore, which reached port today from Calcutta. New Englanders aboard were Professor and Mrs. P. Marsh of Newton Centre and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quimby of Springfield.

BURNED SOMERVILLE SISTERS QUIT HOSPITAL

Alice and Josephine Parkinson, who with their brother Herbert were severely burned while playing with matches Friday at their home, No. 12 Prescott street, Somerville, were discharged from the Central Street Hospital to that city today. Herbert died on Sunday.

MONUMENT DAUBED, POLICE SEEK VANDALS

Somerville police are searching for vandals who daubed with yellow paint the Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial on Central Hill in that city, two guns at the entrance to the monument, and the door of the Hill School on Vinal avenue.

LODGE AND PORTER DISCUSS PEACE RESOLVE

Washington, March 23.—The practicability of declaring peace with Germany by a resolution of Congress was discussed today by Representative Porter, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and Senator Lodge, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

BRITON SLAIN BY MISSIONARY

Army Officer Killed by U. S. Doctor in India, Boston Office Is Informed

A sensational story of the murder of a British army officer in Sadiya, Assam, India, by a missionary of the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of this city was received here today.

According to dispatches, Major H. G. Cloete was shot and killed by L. W. B. Jackman, a physician connected with the Baptist mission, as a result of domestic troubles.

W. B. Lipard, associate secretary of the society, said today information he had received was not clear, and he had wired for details.

It was admitted Mr. and Mrs. Jackman had been receiving letters from Alors and Mirie tribesmen in India since 1904. Their American home is said to have been in New York state and they have two small children.

According to the story, Jackman took a loaded revolver from the bungalow of Major Cloete, who was the son of Sir Henry Cloete, formerly an Indian civil service officer, and asked the major to go outside. When the latter complied, the American is alleged to have killed him. Jackman then gave himself up, it is stated.

AGED CAMBRIDGE MAN IS KILLED BY TRUCK

Nicholas H. Hinnott, seventy-one, of No. 522 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, was killed by a truck driven by another at Massachusetts avenue and Pearl street today. The driver of the truck was held by the police. They are Castos Drangos of Markets street, Lowell, and Charles Monaldice of Market street. According to the bystanders the aged man followed one of the trucks as if to see him. He evidently did not see the one in the rear, and this struck him. He died before he reached the Cambridge Relief Hospital.

COUNTRY CLUB MEMBERS FIRED UPON BY GUNMEN

Providence, March 23.—Four members of the Knickernutt Club at Swansea, near Fall River, were fired upon and driven from the grounds by two armed men when they appeared at the clubhouse preparatory to reopening for the Summer. The police believe that the club was a rendezvous for highwaymen during the Winter and that they were not expecting the visit of the members.

Young Wife Murdered, Police Seek Husband

New Haven, Ct., March 23.—Mrs. Margaret Orr, twenty-year-old wife of Harry Orr, was mysteriously shot to death in Rock Hill Park, a short distance from her home at No. 1416 State street.

The woman was breathing when found on the Davis street bridge, near the Bishop's Gate, but she died before the arrival of an ambulance, without regaining consciousness.

The woman's husband, who is twenty-three, and is said to have been out of work for some time, could not be located. The authorities are seeking him.

A gash on the forehead testified to the fact that Mrs. Orr had tripped and fallen, apparently while attempting to escape. The victim's hat was found a short distance away.

'U. S. FORCED TO GIVE ARMISTICE'

Sims Claimed American Service of Supply Failed, Glass Said in Letter

By International News Service.

Washington, March 23.—The fact that the United States was obliged to grant an armistice because the service of supply of the American army had broken down, was the flat declaration Senator Carter Glass claimed Admiral Sims made to him and Representative Whaley and Byrnes on October 30, 1918, in Paris. This was brought out today in the investigation of charges against the Navy Department by a Senate subcommittee.

Senator Pittman of Nevada presented to the sub-committee a letter from Senator Glass to Admiral Sims in which he made this charge and in which he further said:

"What fools we nearly seven months later you and General Pershing exchanged confidential letters cannot alter the circumstances."

CRETIC PANTRYMAN HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Sebastino Pozzi, a pantryman in the S. S. Canopic, the only member of that ship's crew to be arrested following the seizure of 200 cases of liquor by custom men, was in U. S. District Court today before Commissioner Hayes. Custom officials testified they found twenty-one bottles of cognac under his mattress and in a previous search a mistake in the wording of the clause increasing the policemen, they will combine the beat, under which the firemen have already received. A special meeting will be held at the home of John H. Devine, to vote back pay from January 1 to the policemen.

PLEA FOR TOLERANCE BY BISHOP LAWRENCE

Bishop Lawrence made a plea for tolerance at a Lenten service today in St. Paul's Cathedral. He spoke on "Reconsecration." In part he said that Christians were those who have left the church to seek so-called truths in spirit communication and that they had found the same truths in the church if they exercised patience and faith.

ATTEMPT TO KILL CORK OFFICIAL

Charged That British Sentry Tried to Assassinate Sinn Fein Leader

By International News Service.

Cork, March 23.—An attempt to assassinate Professor Stockley, Sinn Fein alderman of Cork, was made by a British sentry last night, according to a declaration by Stockley today. This was the second attempt upon Stockley's life within a week.

Stockley was on his way home when challenged by a British sentinel. He was given permission to pass. Immediately afterward the sentinel fanged at the professor with his bayonet, but missed.

Machine Guns Used in Disorder at Dublin

London, March 23.—Disorder broke out in Dublin during the night and fifty rounds were fired from machine guns by soldiers in the street, according to a Central News dispatch from Dublin today. There was a panic, but no casualties were reported.

Trouble started when an orchestra refused to play the national anthem. Soldiers broke up crowds of the theatre. Later they returned from their barracks and fired two volleys amidst the crowds. All the lights in the theatre were extinguished and the people fled, taking shelter wherever they could find it. They feared to venture into the streets to go home.

other Daily Express dispatch from Berlin said:

"This city is normal again. The government is absolutely confident of the future."

Spartacists Beaten by Ebert Forces

Berlin, March 23.—Heavy fighting between Spartacists and government troops has occurred at Bernburgerdorf, near Spandau. Forty were killed and sixty-five were injured.

Spandau is one of the most important arsenals in Germany and lives but a few miles west of Berlin.

The government troops were victorious after prolonged fighting and the workmen have been disarmed.

Bolshevik money is being printed by the local soviets established in Mecklenburg and Saxony, and a foreign office announced. Government troops are holding towns in these districts, but the laborers are imitating the Russian Bolsheviks and are seizing large estates.

Leipzig and Dresden are both controlled by government forces.

A general strike was called, but the backbone of the general strike has been broken. Workers of the middle class and many railroad employes are returning to the factories.

In order to placate the workers, the government has begun to reduce its military measures.

The Ebert Cabinet is reported not to be supporting the military and promises are being made that the Reichswehr will be withdrawn as soon as possible.

Whole Bauer Cabinet Faces Displacement

Amsterdam, March 23.—The opinion is growing in Berlin that the whole Bauer cabinet will have to be replaced, said a dispatch to the Telegraaf today.

The outgoing of Herr Noske as minister of defence is heralded as the first step in a cabinet "house cleaning."

There is a widespread demand in Berlin for a purely business government.

GET FUNDS FOR U. S. GIFT TO THE FRENCH

American pupils are turning in contributions toward "America's Gift to France," the statue to be erected on the Marne. It is under construction by Frederick MacMonnies. Arthur Adams, chairman of Suffolk chapter, reports that the Collateral Loan Company, free to hand in its subscription, a 100 per cent. quota representing all employes. Contributions from one cent upward will be accepted.

PROTESTS STALLING CARS IN ROXBURY

Protesting against the stalling of cars at the Warren street entrance to the Dudley street terminal, Roxbury, on the ground that they interfere with the safe passage of apparatus of the Boston Fire Department, Deputy Fire Chief Sennott today declared that a communication forwarded to the Elevated road officials dealing with the matter has been ignored. "It is utterly impossible for Ladder Truck No. 4, eighty-five feet long, to get by the stalled cars in safety," said Sennott.

NORWOOD PASTOR WILL GO TO CLINTON CHURCH

Clinton, March 23.—Rev. Ralph A. Stone of Norwood has notified Fred O. Stowers, clerk of the Clinton Baptist Church, that he cannot accept a call to become pastor of the local church. He asks that the new relation begin May 9. Rev. Mr. Stone is a native of Foxborough, Vt., and was graduated from the Newton Theological Seminary in 1911, since which time he has had a church in Norwood.

ASK EXPLANATION OF DORCHESTER LANDLORD

Isaac Arkin, the owner of a four-family apartment house at No. 28 McLellan street, Dorchester, appeared today before the Commission on the Necessaries of Life to explain rent increases on the property. Tenants have complained that within two years he has raised the rent from $37.50 a month with heat to $60 a month without heat.

LEAGUE GROWS AS RENT FIGHT PROGRESSES

Life to a conference with the joint Judiciary Committees of the House and Senate to discuss the housing and rent problems of Massachusetts.

POINTS NEED OF REMEDY.

This extraordinary order will be considered by the House Committee on Rules tomorrow.

The hearty endorsements given the Boston American Tenants' League by tenants and public-spirited landlords alike, and the rapid growth of this organization, indicates most clearly the need for drastic remedies," said Representative Hays.

Endorsement of the Boston American Tenants' League continue to reach this paper from persons of all walks of life. In many communities local branches of this organization are being formed, notably in Dorchester, where Representative Frank R. Cowin has been appointed chairman of the local branch, and is preparing for a public mass meeting.

Several requests for speakers to explain the aims of the movement have reached the American office from organizations. Any such requests should be addressed Speakers' Bureau, care Rent Editor, Boston American, No. 59 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass.

PROTECTION TO ALL.

Charles W. Bertwell, secretary of the Massachusetts Credit Union Association, added his commendation to the American's Tenants' League. He said: "There should be legislation giving a square deal to both tenants and landlords at the earliest possible moment to meet this very pressing emergency. The Tenants' League started by the American is a very good plan and should have a wide membership."

That the Hays bill, to give a square deal to landlords and tenants, is more far-reaching than seems apparent at first blush was the opinion expressed by Edward T. Hartman, secretary of the Massachusetts Civic League. He said:

"The aim of the Hays bill is a good one and should be enacted into law immediately. There is no doubt that a few unscrupulous landlords are taking advantage of the acute housing situation to boost rents unreasonably. On the whole I doubt whether rents have gone up as much as other necessities—sugar, for instance, and many more commodities. Legislation to curb them should be enacted.

"Tenants have a right to organize for mutual protection against greedy landlords, and should do so. Landlords have their rights, too."

FAVORS TENANTS' LEAGUE.

Henry Howard, of the Merrimack Chemical Company and director of recruiting service in Shipping Board merchant marine during the war, also believes that the objects sought in the Hays bill are desirable. He said:

"While I want to see a SQUARE DEAL to both landlord and tenant, it is obvious that if a sufficient return on the investment is not allowed, capital will not enter the housing field, and the bill would defeat its purpose. I am opposed to the State going into the house-building field. This should be left to private capital entirely." He said he did not object to tenants banding together in a league for mutual protection from greedy landlords.

Mrs. Matilda Murphy, clubwoman, of Lynn, who served on the Lynn rent investigations and was complimented by the Mayor on the disinterestedness of her work, endorses the American's campaign against the rent profiteers. She also endorses the Hays bill.

LATE PROFITEERING FACT.

She said: "It is very difficult to get action against these profiteering landlords. The Hays bill, therefore, would seem to have its feet on the earth and a starting point from which to proceed. One of the best features of the Hays bill is the 10 per cent. rent clause. In our investigations this year in Lynn we did some pretty elaborate figuring. After considering everything we found that a 10 per cent. profit was a very good profit, better than many investments pay, and that the landlord under the present conditions who tries to exact more is certainly profiteering. And I say this having been a landlord myself."

Rent profiteering is denounced by real estate operators and business men of Hyde Park, who endorse the Hays rent bill and congratulate the Boston American in forming the tenants' league.

F. Peter McGrath, treasurer of the Hyde Park Co-Operative Bank, said: "Rent profiteering has got to stop, and the best way is for every business man, real estate dealer and banker to support the Hays bill. This bill if put into effect would no doubt help to put a stop to landlords renting their rents and would tend to drop the price in real estate, and more property would change hands. The Hays bill, in my opinion, is a step in the right direction, and the Boston American is to be congratulated for bringing together the people who pay rents, and forming an organization which will go a great ways in reducing rents."

Earnest W. Flagg, editor of the Hyde Park Gazette, said:

"The Hays bill, in my opinion, if passed, will certainly assist to a great extent in cutting down the rents and top the rent profiteering of landlords. I know right here in Hyde Park where the rents have jumped 9 per cent. since the property changed hands, and another instance that I recall is a landlord who raised his rents $3 to $5 a month on his forty tenants. This same landlord raised some of his tenants little less than a year ago."

David W. Murray, former member of the cold storage commission, said: "Rent profiteering can be stopped. In my opinion, if every person paying rent would urge their representative and Senators to support the Hays anti-rent profiteering bill. The landlords are receiving more than their share in rents and it is the poor people that have to dig down in their purse and pay the price, no matter what that price might be. This is working a hardship on many that are unable to stand it. I am heartily in favor of the tenants' league, and the Boston American is to be commended for starting this movement."

Thomas E. Lynch, real estate and insurance broker of Hyde Park, said:

"In my opinion rents can be reduced when the Hay anti-rent profiteering bill is passed, which will give the proper authorities the right to question landlords and learn why rents are continually being jumped. Rent profiteering among landlords should be stopped, and the best way I believe is by the tenants throughout the State joining the tenants' league that is under way, and with the backing of such a splendid newspaper as the Boston American, always ready and willing to give its time and space in its paper to better conditions for the people, I am very much in favor of Representative Hays' bill.

Revere Stops Permits to Greedy Landlords

Refusal to grant "remodelling permits" to landlords in Revere, who are alleged to use this scheme to evict tenants, was a feature of the war which is being waged by the Revere Tenants' League against alleged profiteering landlords. The inspector of buildings for the city is co-operating with the league, and the city's law department has been placed at the disposal of the league to investigate all complaints, according to Alexander Marcus, counsel for the tenants.

Not satisfied with this victory over the landlords, the tenants' league intends to carry its campaign even further, and is arranging several meetings for this purpose. A meeting will be held the latter part of this week in the Walnut School Hall, which the city has allowed them to use, and reports will be made by members of the league.

SHIELDS DENOUNCED BY COLUMBUS CLUB

The Columbus Republican Club of New England, Massachusetts Division No. 1, adopted resolutions condemning Senator Shields of Tennessee because of alleged utterances made on the floor of the Senate against the Italian people. The resolution thanked Senator Lodge for his efforts in behalf of Italy.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Toilet Talk)

Any woman can keep her skin free from unsightly hair or fuss if she will follow these simple instructions: When hairy growths appear, apply a simple paste, made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. Apply this to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a harmless treatment, but be sure you get the real delatone.—Advertisement.

BOSTON AMERICAN READERS

Mrs. Mary Shaw

9 Crescent Ave., Chelsea, Mass.

will be paid $150 for the "best last line" of

LIMERICK No. 39

The completed Limerick reads as follows:

"The women are getting the vote,"
Mrs. Catt to the newspapers wrote,
"But two States are lacking,
To give us the backing,
So, woman, now off with your coat."

Mrs. Mary Shaw Briggs of No. 9 Crescent avenue, Chelsea, finds that there is money as well as fun in supplying the missing "last line." She says that she began writing "best last lines" for fun. With her husband she has sent in answers to every one of the American's limericks and today will be awarded $150 for writing the last line to Limerick No. 39. Mrs. Briggs has written several short stories under the pen name of Mary Shaw.

4 next "best last lines" of No. 39 Limerick were written by

JESSE G. ZIM, 18 Baldwin St., Malden, Mass.
WALTER HUNT, 216 Pequot Ave., New London, Ct.
MRS. T. M. DE FOSSET, Montpelier, Vt.
D. M. KELLEY, 72 Westland Ave., Boston, Mass.

Each of whom will be paid $25.00 by the Boston American.

RULES:

1. Writer, January 30th, the Boston American commenced publication of a daily incompleted Limerick, and $150 will be paid for the "best last line" sent in by its readers completing Limerick Numbers 1 and 2. Beginning with Limerick No. 3, a total award of $250 will be given; first award, $150, and for the next four "best last lines," $25.00 each will be given. In the event of more than one person sending in the same "best last line," similar awards will be made.

2. No one is barred from participating except employes of the Boston American and their families, who are absolutely barred. No one may send in more than one "best last line" to each Limerick.

3. The blank printed herewith is for the convenience of the readers and the editors, but you do not have to use this particular blank.

4. Each Limerick appearing in the Boston American will have a number, and the "best last line" must be sent in a sealed envelope, by mail, addressed to "Boston American Limerick Department," P. O. Box 235, Boston 8, Mass. On the outside of each envelope containing the "best last line" must be written or printed "Limerick No. ——." This is most important.

5. All "best last lines" must be received by the Limerick Department by 12 o'clock noon, four days after publication. Announcement of each award will be made in the Boston American one week after publication of each Limerick.

6. The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in or addition to these rules that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the proposition, and the decision of the Boston American Limerick Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entering of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

COLLEENS SELL IRISH BONDS

Solicit Hub Women Today in Honor of Countess Markievicz

Pretty girls employed in business houses as stenographers today invaded the financial district selling Irish bond certificates. Others visited houses in the back Bay section and disposed of many bonds. The understanding was that they should solicit women to subscribe to the fund in honor of the Countess Markievicz, who has the distinction of being the first woman to be elected to the British Parliament, but, like other Sinn Fein members, has refused to take her seat.

The results of De Valera Day have not all been received at State headquarters, but the first of the returns reported today indicate, said State director Harrigan, that many "loan leaders," or large-sized subscriptions were turned in to campaign committees throughout the State.

Brockton, it was pointed out, will observe tomorrow as Thomas Clarke Day, and Thursday, instead of today, as Countess Markievicz Day.

Joseph K. L. Corcoran of the Ward 13 committee, turned in a sub-scription to State headquarters with the following letter from a fifteen-year-old Sinn Feiner:

"I have been saving this money up for a long time, hoping that it will do a little to help Ireland, and I hope to see the day that Ireland will be free, Edward Connors, of No. 4 Leddyville street, Dorchester."

Ward 14, through its chairman, Dennis F. Reardon, reported subscriptions for the day amounting to $2,435, bringing the Mission Church district of Roxbury nearly up to the $28,000 mark.

Thomas A. Hyland of Ward 1 reported that subscriptions there now total $2,200. All of this amount has been turned into State headquarters in cash.

Medford, through its chairman, Charles T. Daly, reported that $1,015 was raised at the big Sunday rally in Medford Theatre. Organization of canvassing teams is now well under way in Medford and every effort is being made to oversubscribe the quota of 25,000 set for that city, before the end of the drive on March 31.

"Loan leader" subscriptions for the day also included subscriptions for $100 from Cigarmakers' Union No. 97, signed by William Collins, president, and Henry Abrahams, secretary, and County Limerick Association subscribed $250 from its treasury for Irish bonds and the family of James Crowley of No. 837 Ashmont street, Dorchester, is listed at headquarters as a "100 per cent family." Members of the Crowley household have subscribed for a total of $110 in Irish bonds.

Telegram was received by the State director from Frank F. Walsh, national chairman, congratulating Massachusetts on conducting its drive within the two per cent. expense allowed.

Assault Case is Filed

The case of Menry Foo, Chinese restaurant proprietor, found guilty of assault on Patrolman Joshua Mo-Cisin, was filed today by Judge Hayden in Roxbury court.

UPHAMS CORNER STRAND—The devotion of a dog to those that treat it kindly, and its hatred of those who attempt to master it through cruelty, is shown in "Back to God's Country," at Upham's Corner Strand.

Marguerite Clark, in "A Girl Named Mary," Roy Frazee at the Strand organ, the Strand News Weekly and a new comedy complete the bill.

TREMONT TEMPLE—The eighth annual presentation of "Les Miserables," the photoplay version of Victor Hugo's masterpiece, began an engagement of one week at the Tremont Temple before two large audiences. There have been other filmizations of "Les Miserables," but none which trace the plot with such fidelity and such infinite regard of detail as this French version.

BOSTON THEATRE—"The Adventurer," with William Farnum, headed an excellent program at the Boston Theatre, the film drama being one of the best in which this star has been seen.

HOWARD ATHENAEUM—Harry Steppe and the Razzle Dazzle Burlesque drew large audiences to the Howard Athenaeum, where the show proved a decided laugh getter. The entire program, including a very good vaudeville bill, abounded in clever specialties, with singing and dancing features.

MALDEN AUDITORIUM—"Jim's Girl," which was given an excellent interpretation by the capable Temple Stock Company at the Malden Auditorium, is the story of a brave young hero who went overseas with the Yankee Division, although the story does not begin until his return after the signing of the armistice. Dwight Meade, in the role of the gallant

'WONDER GIRL' AT WALDORF

Lotta, the "Wonder Girl," and her company are the headline attraction at the Waldorf all this week. This is one of the most elaborate posing acts on the vaudeville stage and presents a uniquely beautiful innovation entitled "Twenty Minutes shown in a changing line with special scene. There are seventeen numbers shown, posed against effective backgrounds. The company consists of five finely formed women and two men of splendid physique. In addition to this feature act the Waldorf Musical Comedy Company presents another popular farce, and May Allison is seen in her lastest release. The entire program, with the exception of Lotta, the "Wonder Girl," will be changed on Thursday.

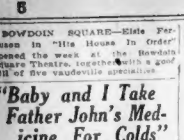
BOWDOIN SQUARE—Elsie Ferguson in "His House In Order" opened the week at the Bowdoin Square Theatre, together with a good bill of five vaudeville specialties.

"Baby and I Take Father John's Medicine For Colds"

"It Cures Our Colds and Builds Us Up When We Are Run-Down."



"I was run-down and had lost strength, but Father John's Medicine is just the medicine for me. It is building me right up again. I am sending a picture of my little girl Martha. It relieved her of a cold and I am giving it to her for awhile longer to build up her strength," (Signed) Mrs. Alfred Chouinard, 615 Central Ave., Pawtucket, R. I.

When any of the family becomes weak or run down, no better bodybuilder can be found than Father John's Medicine, because it is all pure, nourishing food which builds new strength and flesh. It is not a temporary stimulant and is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form. A doctor's prescription sixty years in use.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and after four or more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

EVA TANGUAY HERE WITH NEW SONGS

B. F. Keith's Theatre is celebrating its twenty-sixth anniversary this week, with what might easily be called a super-vaudeville bill, headed by that dynamic force of vaudeville, Eva Tanguay. She is here with new songs and wearing apparel of the most advanced creation.

The "I Don't Care Girl" leads an exceptional bill. Bert Errol—with the Tettrazini voice—shows himself to be one of the best female impersonators on the stage. He was called back many times to give encores, and his act, no an unusual one, goes big because of his inimical way of doing it.

The Douglas Fairbanks of vaudeville is there in William Gaxton. In the sketch entitled "The Junior Partner," by Rupert Hughes, Jr., Mr. Gaxton keeps the house in an uproar of laughter. His sketch has to do with the consolidation of three "important railroads," and in an artful way Mr. Gaxton, assisted by a worthy company, puts it over.

Lee Rose and Katheryn Moon tell a story in song and dance that goes well. Jed Dooley tells jokes and throws a lariat in a way that "catch on," while Balfour Lloyd and Gilbert Wells, dark-faced comediatis, have some amusing chatter and clever dancing.

There are Babetta Patrick, the equilibriatic marvel; Olive Briscoe and Al Rauh in exclusive songs and patter, and also William Rochfretto and his posing horse and dogs. The usual Kinograms and Topics of the Day complete the bill.

Other Theatres

ORPHEUM THEATRE — Andrew Mack, the popular Irish actor, singer and entertainer, scored the biggest hit of the season at Loew's Orpheum Theatre, and the uproar of applause that followed the rendering of his famous songs bespoke his popularity. Other lively numbers on the bill were Blossom Baird and company, in a bright one-act comedy; Chic and Tiny Harvey, in a melange of "clever comicalities;" Shirley sisters and Bud Bernie, song and dance; Harry Van Fleet, jesting comedian, and Tony Georgo and company, in equilibristic feats. The film attraction offered Olive Thomas, in a romance from her own pen, "Youthful Folly."

GLOBE THEATRE—Olive Thomas is both author and star of "Youthful Folly," shown at the Globe Theatre for the first time in Boston. The heroine, a very young, unhappily married girl, works out some hard problems, and finally achieves happiness. The companion film features Mary MacLaren, in "Rouge and Riches."

COLUMBIA THEATRE — Today's bill at the Columbia Theatre includes Douglas MacLean in "Mary's Ankle," a vaudeville bill, and Elaine Hammerstein in "The Woman Came." On Wednesday and Thursday Douglas Fairbanks will be screened in "When the Clouds Roll By" and Nazimova in "Stronger Than Death."

WALDRON'S CASINO—Drew and Campbell's Liberty Girls' Company is at Waldron's Casino in a specially written musical melange called "Manless Isle." Some idea of its comeliness may be gathered from the fact that it is in two acts and two scenes, each requiring a complete shift of setting. Jack Conway, leading comedian, is the author of the piece.

GAYETY—Ina Hayward, a statuesque young woman with red hair, a voice of unusual range and sweetness, and the ability to wear richly elaborate costumes with considerable effect, centres the interest in Joe Hurtig's "Social Maids," which opened a week's stay at the Gayety.

MODERN AND BEACON—The Modern and Beacon are featuring two of the latest releases this week—Marion Davies in her latest Cosmopolitan Production, "April Folly," and all-star cast in the filmisation of Harold MacGrath's greatest story, "The Luck of the Irish." In other cities each of these pictures is being shown alone as a special feature, but the Modern and Beacon combine the two as their regular performance. The usual short reels are also shown, including a news weekly and a comedy.

CODMAN SQUARE THEATRE—"The Elephant Man," featuring Shirley Mason, a story of the "inside" of the circus game, was shown at the Codman Square Theatre.

FRANKLIN PARK THEATRE—Douglas Fairbanks drew hundreds of his admirers to the Franklin Park Theatre with his latest production, "When the Clouds Roll By."

Plays That Remain

HOLLIS—"Bab," impersonated by the charming Helen Hayes, continues to sparkle in the adventures of a romantic "sub-deb."

SHUBERT—Last week of "Greenwich Village Follies," lively musical and dancing review of New York's "Bohemian" quarter.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—"Chu Chin Chow" enters upon its last fortnight. Spectacular Oriental fantasy, resplendent with brilliant costumes.

TREMONT—"Here Mahle," laughable musical comedy based on the well-known series of letters by a rookie to his girl.

ARLINGTON—Mary Young in "The Outrageous Mrs. Palmer" will continue the engagement for two weeks longer. A well performed "character" comedy.

PLYMOUTH—"The Girl in the Limousine," daring farce played largely in bedroom attire, continues to startle and make audiences laugh.

WILBUR—Constance Binney and Henry Hull in a clean and sensational comedy of New York boarding house life, "19 East," by Rachel Crothers.

PARK SQUARE—Fifth week of "Honey Girl," light dancing entertainment for the T. N. T., with plenty of pretty girls and up-to-date slang.

COLONIAL—Tuneful music and other good features in "The Royal Vagabond," a "Cohanized" operetta starring Robinson Newbold.

Coming Events

SHUBERT THEATRE—Next week, "The Century Midnight Whirl," presented by John Henry Mears by arrangement with Morris Gest, for two weeks. The cast includes Bessie McCoy Davis and other popular stars, with a "millionaires' chorus" of thirty-six pretty girls.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Eternal Light," an eight-reel production of the Passion Play, twice daily during Holy Week, beginning March 29.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—Marie Dressler, in "Tillie's Nightmare," musical farce, beginning April 5, produced here for the first time.

DEDICATE NEW LOEW THEATRE AT NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., March 23.—The Governor, Mayor and other noted personages, including a large array of famous film stars, were present at the opening and dedication here of the new Loew playhouse. The theatre is one of the most sumptuous and modern of the Loew chain, and the most capacious theatre in the State. It will be devoted wholly to motion pictures and vaudeville.

For the Little Ones

To Keep Their Digestion Perfect Nothing Is So Safe and Pleasant as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

An experienced observer in charge of a large office said it was a waste of words to tell most people to eat plain food. They prefer the food that delights the eye. Checking up on 100 after effects the usual distresses of gassiness, sour rising, water brash, loginess and so on may be avoided by following the meal with one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These sweeten the stomach with the alkaline effect thus promoting normal conditions as to health. This puts the K. O. on the called rich food. Men and women are but children of a larger growth when it comes to eating the foods that satisfy, even though they cause indigestion.

Indigestion is not necessarily confined to those who live high. It may follow so simple a process as the flavoring of a bay leaf, thyme, garlic, sage or any of the other savory flavorings so universally used in soups, roasts, dressings, etc. As a rule, if the stomach balks at such things it will be disturbed by cheese, milk, coffee, pies and almost anything that most people like well. But with conditions as these are met quite adequately by following the meal with one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They digest food and at the same time supply the stomach with an alkaline effect that prevents gassiness after eating and such distresses as familiar to many women as indigestion or dyspepsia. Get a box of these tablets at any drug store in the United States or Canada, price 50 cents, and then note how comfortable the stomach feels. Your most excellent cook may use garlic without a protest.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had a salve that he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy to expressing my state of mind mildly. Obviously, the hair roots were dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into large practical form by a chemist.

That my own bald scalp was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Kotalko (which contains alkaline) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nourishment that give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe despondent; it makes anyone so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

APRIL FOLLY
with
Marion Davies

All This Week

April Poole, young, pretty and clever, was one of the literary successes of the day.

Kerry Sarle was the head of the publishing house of Sarle & Co., whose magazines April's writing had helped toward fame.

April writes a story which she reads to Kerry Sarle, a story of romance and adventure which carries the reader from the dreary library of an English mansion to a costume ball in Greenwich Village and, finally, on, by means of a dramatic moment in a hut in Cape Town, South Africa.

As the tale is worn by April, she borrows Kerry Sarle's name and character for her hero, a South African millionaire.

For the whimsical, daring adventurous of the story she coolly names herself.

There are thrilling moments of threatened tragedy, where scandal (and even death) lurks in the wake of her slip of romance.

But for the seeming folly of April in the story the April of real life is weaving a romance with quite another story.

Kerry Sarle thought her a fine little pal. He took her charms for granted. He had never noticed that real love was just around the corner.

April's method of securing the final chapter for her delightful fiction romance is the beginning of a new story for April and Kerry.

$1,000.00 Scenario Contest

Have you ever thought out a pretty love story with a charming heroine and an attractive hero? If you have, write it into a brief scenario and try to win the $1,000 prize which the Cosmopolitan Productions offers for the best short scenario suitable for Miss Davies.

To learn the general type of scenario desired, see "April Folly" at the leading moving picture theatres, or read the story in the Hearst publications, or you have it told to you. Scenarios are not required to see the photoplay "April Folly" to enter this contest.

Write a clean, wholesome love story with an entertaining series of incidents and a good moral, briefly told in straightforward way—no florid writing.

If the scenario is good enough to be used, Cosmopolitan Productions will pay for it, in addition to awarding the $1,000. In fact, others than the prize winning scenario may be bought.

Of course, Cosmopolitan Productions has plenty of great stories, but it wants to encourage new writers and new ideas. If you have good ideas send them in. You may win the $1,000 prize and open a career for yourself as a writer.

Do not exceed 2,000 words. The stories will be returned with which are not accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope. This contest closes May 15th.

The judges will be Marion Davies, Cosmopolitan Productions' star; William Le Baron, the distinguished playwright, and Ray Long, Editor-in-Chief of the International Magazine Co.

Send your scenarios to Cosmopolitan Productions, 128 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

MAKING BOOK ON "PRO" GOLF TOURNAMENTS IS LATEST MENACE

NEW YORK FIRM QUOTES ODDS ON LEADING PLAYERS

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 23.—Bookmaking on the professional golf tournaments in the South has flourished to such an extent this season that the names of many of the stars are becoming as familiar with gamblers as the names of race horses. One firm has a long list of customers, and mails its prices broadcast a few days before tournaments are scheduled to start.

Tips on just how Walter Hagen is hitting the ball; on Jim Barnes' tendency to hook; and on the physical condition of some other professionals are handed around like "stable dope" before a horse race. Donald Ross and many others who have always strives to keep golf out of the list of sports upon which books are made, are alarmed over the situation. They are endeavoring to determine a method by which it can be stopped.

A certain New York firm publishes a printed slip giving the prices of all are likely starters in the tournaments, to win, to finish second and to finish third; or win place and show, as the race track gamblers have it. Before the big tournament at Belleaire the sheet had the names of thirty-six golfers. The odds offered on the top three professionals were: Hagen win 6, 2nd 2, 3rd even; Alex Smith 7, 2nd 2½, third even; Barnes with 7, 2nd 2½, 3rd even.

Bets Must Be Mailed by Night Before

This firm agrees to pay bets provided they are mailed the night before a tournament is scheduled to start. Donald Ross says that it is a shame that the golf professionals should have no means to prevent having their names published like so many race horses, and passed about for gaming purposes. Many of the professionals object, but a number merely protest against the prices at which they are quoted.

Ross, who is in charge of golf Pinehurst, says that no bookmaking will be permitted here on the North and South championships, although he admits he cannot prevent gamblers offering odds by mail. He thinks that the United States Golf Association would do well to consider the situation and use its influence to have professional bookmakers kept out of golf.

The first day of play in the North and South championships was today when more than seventy-five women started in the qualifying round of the woman's championship. The field, the best to ever play here, includes many national champions. This championship was won in 1918 and 1919 by Mrs. J. V. Hurd. Mrs. Hurd will defend her title. Among the women of national reputation in playing are Mrs. R. H. Barlow of Merion, Mrs. W. L. Gavin of South Shore, Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Chicago, and Miss Eleanor Chandler of Huntington Valley.

New England Players in North and South

Among the New England women in the field are Mrs. Clifton Dennis of Portland, Miss Glenna Collett of Metacomet, Mrs. F. T. Keating of Agawam Hunt, Mrs. H. C. Campbell of Brae-Burn; Mrs. M. W. Marr, Brae-Burn; Mrs. Frank W. Memick, Brae-Burn; Mrs. James H. Mason, Commonwealth; J. A. Hathaway and Miss Marjorie Carpenter, Boston.

Francis Ouimet and Percy Gilbert defeated P. C. Newton and Sam Graham, one up Monday in a best ball match. Ouimet had an individual score of 78, the best of any of the players. At the fourteenth hole Ouimet and Gilbert were three down, but they won the remaining four holes. Ouimet was hitting a good tee shot but he was bad around the greens.

Thursday Ouimet and Parker Whittemore will play George McLean and Clement French. Reginald Rose announces today that Ferry Addy of Atlanta would be here for the North and South open and amateur championships and would bring Robert T. Jones, 2nd, with him, if he could possibly do so.

JOHNNY DOWNES BEATS JOE DAWSON ALL THE WAY

Johnny Downes of South Boston defeated Joe Dawson of Milwaukee in a twelve-round fast bout at the Commonwealth A. A. Scenic Temple, and was given the award by the referee. Downes was ahead the greater part of the distance, but had no clinch.

Arthur Ross, North End, beat Johnny Marin, East Boston, in eight rounds. Benny Flynn, Roxbury, and Johnny O'Brien, East Boston, went six rounds to a draw in the opener. The second prelim saw John McGonigal, Roxbury, stop Johnny Burke, South Boston, in three rounds.

TOMMY McFARLAND AND YOUNG BLADES BOX DRAW

Young Blades of Woonsocket and Tommy McFarland of Boston boxed a twelve-round draw at the Casino A. C., Lynn. Bunch O'Neil of Lynn won in eight rounds over Frankie Thomas of Beachmont, and Dummy Burns of Brooklyn stopped Larry Cross of Lynn in one round.

HARVARD TO ROW ON CHARLES TOMORROW

RED SOX BATTLE FORT WORTH

Young Pitchers to Be Afforded an Opportunity to Show Their Ability

By JACK CONWAY.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 23.—The Red Sox and Giants suspended their series long enough today to permit Barrow's outfit to trolley over here to play the local club which pastimes in the Texas League. McGraw's ambitious athletes were booked to perform against Dallas on the latter club's home pasture. The Sox did not expect an easy game here. Fort Worth is represented by a scrappy ball club, which fact was proved when it walloped the White Sox, 6 to 2, last Sunday.

Today's game presented another opportunity in the young lives of some of Barrow's rookie flingers. Pat Fisherne, Cuddy Murphy and Garry Fortune were down to face Fort Worth. This trio showed well against the Pirates at Hot Springs and consequently felt confident of handing a setback to the local nine.

Stanley Stack, one of the new infielders, may be given a chance to show what he can do at third base before the Sox leave today. He has relieved Scott several times at shortstop, but says his regular position is third base. Stack's home is in Chicago. He is twenty-three years old and a fine prospect. He is still a crude fielder, but his ability to hit gives him a chance to stay in the big show. Perhaps he would field better if placed at third base.

Red Sox Must Develop Third Baseman

It will be necessary for the Sox to develop a new third baseman sooner or later. Eddie Foster, who is now covering this position, is getting along in years and cannot hope to keep playing ball indefinitely. A hitter like Stack could be developed into understudy for Foster so that he could take charge of affairs at the hot corner of the diamond, as soon as the veteran passes out of active service.

The ability to hit seems to be one of the chief characteristics of the Red Sox recruits. Hillier, who has shown well at second base, is a hard hitter like Stack. Hillier's regular position is third base. Barrow, however, has been trying to develop Hillier into a second baseman, as this is the weakest spot in the club's infield.

Hack Eibel was touted as a first-class all-around ball player, but Barrow's Hot Springs. He has shown so much class pitcher when he reported at that he has been attempting to develop him to play first base. He would act as an understudy to Stuffy McInnis and also perform in the role of pinch-hitter against right-handed pitching. Hack is a port-side batter. Last year Babe Ruth could always be shifted to first base if McInnis was out of the game. With Babe gone the assignment will probably be cared for by Eibel. The latter is a big fellow with a wonderful pair of shoulders. He has the build to develop into a .300 batter; this is the opinion held by some of the veteran players of the Sox outfit.

Giants Batter Barrow's Rookie Hurlers

The Red Sox dropped the third game of the series to the Giants, 14 to 5. Incidentally the Boston rookie pitchers showed they are far from being of major league calibre. Bennie Karr, who gave all kinds of promise at Hot Springs, started and proved a big disappointment.

BRAVES BATTLE TIGERS TODAY

Detroit a Classy Looking Team With Pitchers Going in Great Style

By NICK FLATLEY.

Columbus, Ga., March 23.—Hughey Jennings is re-vaping with his Tigers. The great Spring series, which will include eighteen games and more travelling than Baron Munchausen ever dreamed of, starts today. Both Braves and Tigers were ready—to pack their grips and spend some three happy weeks on the Pullman. Probably that is why they call it Spring training.

Anyway, this was the day, as you always must say when something real starts in baseball. The wealth and beauty of the village were gathered at the ball yard to watch the clash of the big leaguers. The big new grandstand was full—or splinters. The speculators were busy here, as usual, with moonshine.

The teams had the morning off to rest up and get the laundry back and everything, and some twenty-four hours hence all the athletes will be fighting about upper berths and small-time restaurants. The season, accordingly, is on.

Rival Pitching Nominations

Saturnine Joseph Oeschger and debonair Hugh McQuillen were elected to hold up the Brave pitching end of affairs while Dr. Jennings nominated Doc Ayres, one time Senator, and Claude Jourard to fling baseballs at our National Leaguers. You all know Doc, and Claude comes from Nashville and has one eye and a lot of curves and things.

For the sake of getting the proper line on Tiger-ww popped over to Macon and watched the Peaches have their final day of practice. We might mention that Detroit will occupy a very strong spot on the baseball map this season. The Tigers, who have hammered themselves up the cruel for the last few years, are out this time to play real baseball from the drop of the bat.

Jack Coombs has threatened to drive the Strait City a regular pitching staff for this campaign and with that settled none of the Westerners can see anything but the pennant, as they call the pennant in the magazines. Just that spirit is the thing Detroit has lacked for the last few years and now that it's present it looks like a tough series for the anxious Braves.

Jennings' Team Good in All Departments

As we see things, Jennings has a star outfield in Veach, Cobb, Shorten and Flagstead, all .300 hitters. He has a dependable infield, the same as last year, with a couple of ambitious youths threatening to pry loose a pair of the regulars. Bigilin is giving Pep Young a wrestle for second base, while Ralph Pinelli is likely to replace Bobby Jones at third.

Back of the plate a bird named Larry Woodall is showing sufficient class to make it certain that Yelle will be cast adrift and Stanage held for emergency. Eddie Ainsmith, as usual, will be the big noise and he looks faster than ever, which is some fast.

Coombs has six seasoned flingers for a starter, Dauss, Boland, Ayres and Ehmke, right handers; Dutch Leonard and Love, southpaws. Most any team could win a pennant with that half dozen alone. In addition, there are six rookies, all of whom appear to have enough stuff to stay under the big tent.

PLAN NEW HAMPSHIRE BASEBALL LEAGUE

Laconia, N. H., March 22.—Plans are underway to organize a baseball league to include Suncook, Concord, Pennacook, Franklin, Laconia and Meredith. The promoters and organizers are H. J. Gerard of Laconia and Joe Andrews of Concord.

Title for Londos if He Beats Burns

Jimmy Londos, the Greek star, who hooks up with Cyclone Burns at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night, will declare himself the world's light heavyweight champion if he wins over Burns, according to information from his friends. He says that as Burns is generally regarded the best man in the world in that division, other than Caddock, he will be entitled to claim the honor if successful against the Cyclone.

The statement by the Greek indicates the esteem in which Burns is held by wrestlers of his class, and also gives an inkling of the great incentive to win Thursday night's contest.

HARVARD PLAYERS WORK OUT AT CONCORD

Harvard candidates made another journey to the Middlesex School grounds for a two hours of hard work. Coach Slattery used pitchers Babe Pulton, Fred Hullard and big Bobby Clark on the infield contingent was batting, but warned them against using anything but straight balls. Judge Holmes, a local fan of the hockey team, was an extra man taken along, making three candidates for the first base position with the Concord squad. The varsity infield still continues to be Austin Blair at first, Captain Emmons at second, Arthur Conlon at short, and Eddie Lincoln at third. The remainder of the squad practised in the baseball cage on Soldiers Field under Coach Cland Davison.

CATHEDRAL A. A. TO HOLD TEN-MILE RUN

A ten-mile open handicap cross country run will be held under the auspices of the Cathedral A. A. on Saturday afternoon, April 10, at 2 o'clock p. m.

The race starts at the clubhouse at Union Park street, to Harrison avenue, to Massachusetts avenue, to Columbia road, to Blue Hill avenue, to Morton street and return via the same route.

The race is open to any registered amateur athlete and entries may be secured and closed with D. J. Foley, No. 434 Dudley street, Boston 19.

LEGION TEAMS TO PLAY SATURDAYS AND SUNDAYS

The newly formed American Legion baseball league will include teams from the following counties: Suffolk, Middlesex, Norfolk, Essex, Worcester, Plymouth, Hampden and Berkshire.

Games will be played Saturdays and Sundays.

JESSE BURKETT CUTS SQUAD AT HOLY CROSS

Worcester, March 23.—Coach Jesse Burkett made his first cut in the Holy Cross baseball squad, reducing the infield and outfield candidates to a small fraction of the group that appeared at the beginning of the season. The pitchers, catchers and first basemen were unmolested, as the coach wishes to get the best possible material out of these groups.

STECKER AND LEWIS WIN IN STRAIGHT FALLS

Rochester, N. Y., March 23.—Joe Stecker, champion heavyweight wrestler, defeated Stan Gravlovitz of Bohemia in straight falls. Ed "Strangler" Lewis defeated Jack Edwards in straight falls.

SOMETHING ELSE AGAIN.

TWO BIG BOUTS AT TRIPLE A

George Robinson Battles Jack Savage; Young Blades and Frankie Schoell Meet

Thirty-six rounds of boxing are down on the schedule for the fans at the regular weekly meeting of the Armory A. A. at the Grand Opera House tonight.

The two feature bouts will bring together George Robinson of Cambridge and Jack Savage of Brockton and Young Blades with Frankie Schoell of Buffalo, one of the best coached boxers to arrive here in some months.

In the preliminaries Young Bennie of the South End will swap punches with Dick Smith of Cambridge while in the second six Frank Daley of Roxbury will tackle Al Lane of the South End.

WHELAN TO SUPERVISE HARVARD TRACK MEN

Dr. Charles "Doc" Whelan of Tufts football fame has signed up as supervisor of track athletics at Harvard, and instructor in the department of hygiene. The doctor's work will not interfere to any extent with that of Pooch Donovan, veteran track coach, although he will do some coaching in the Spring.

Whelan graduated from Dartmouth in 1902, having played four years in football and track, and two in basketball. He worked his way through college and the Tufts Medical School, from which he graduated. He coached at Volkmann School for five years and at Tufts for ten years as football coach at Tufts.

During the war, the doctor organized and equipped an X-ray department in a New York debarkation hospital which took care of 34,000 casuals. His contract at Harvard calls for his services as coach, but secondary only to his professional work.

PERE MARQUETTE FIVE TO MEET COLUMBUS CLUB

The first of a series of three games between the Pere Marquette K. of C. basketball team of South Boston and the Columbus Club five of Dorchester will be played at the Dorchester High School Hall Saturday night. Hap Dever, Jack Dillon, Dodo Burke, Eddie Potter and Fred Curtin will be in the lineup for the Columbus Club, while the Pere Marquette team will boast such stars as McCarthy, Kendricks, McDonough and Flaherty. The second game will be staged one week from Saturday at South Boston High School.

ST. MARK'S ISSUES DEFI TO NORWOOD K. OF C.

After winning the championship of Dorchester last Saturday night, the St. Mark's Catholic Club throws an open challenge to the Norwood K. of C. for next Saturday night. If agreeable, the second team will oppose the Norwood A. A.

Managers of said teams kindly get in touch with Manager Patrigan, Call Dorchester 52369, between 7 and 7.30 p. m.

B. C. AUTHORITIES TO ENCLOSE ALUMNI FIELD

The athletic authorities at Boston College have decided to enclose Alumni Field. A contract was signed yesterday and the work will be completed April 19, when the University of Vermont ball team comes to town. This is the first step taken by Boston College to bring the crowds out to University Heights.

HARVARD TO CLOSE SWIMMING SEASON

Harvard closes its swimming season at five today, meeting Boston University in the "Y" pool. Harvard's entries include A. H. Brackett, G. S. Worcester, E. C. Mott-Smith, G. Tilton, A. Levy, L. B. Davis, W. W. Douglass, A. M. Goddard.

CHARLESTOWN QUINTETS TO BATTLE FOR TITLE

The basketball championship of Charlestown will be decided Wednesday evening. The Charlestown All-Stars and the Bunker Hill Five will meet in the K. of C. Hall at 8 p. m. to battle for the title of their district.

Both teams have a fine record for the season and the game will attract considerable interest. Roy Green, the popular match maker of the Fenway Club, will be in the All-Stars. The lineup:

BUNKER HILL.	ALL-STARS.
Bill Jamaikin	Roy Green
Hughie Morphy	Davie Meade
Willie Barrett	Louie Mitchell
Okie O'Connor	Leonard Gallagher
Joe Greer	Snappy O'Connell
Davie Freeman	Johnnie Riley

Newburyport Wins

Newburyport, March 23.—Newburyport basketball team defeated the American Legion of Haverhill, 48 to 36.

American Olympic Seven Selected

New York, March 23.—The American hockey team stands officially entered for the Olympic hockey contest to be played at the Palais De Grace, Antwerp, and notification of the acceptance by the Belgian Olympic Committee has been received by F. W. Rubien, secretary of the American Olympic Committee.

The names sent on the official entry blanks were:

Forwards—Joe McCormick (captain), Larry McCormick and Trury of Pittsburgh; Goheen and Conroy of St. Paul, Minn.; Geran and Synnott of Boston.

Defence—Small and Tuck of Boston and Fitzgerald of St. Paul.

Goal—Bonney of Pittsburgh.

WINTER SPORTS NEARING END

Schoolboys Are Ready Even Now to Shift Their Athletic Activities Outdoors

By TOM POWER.

"Good-by Winter sports, welcome Spring," is now the thought uppermost in the minds of the schoolboy athlete.

After a successful season in all the branches of Winter sports, the curtain is now to be dropped. This week will see the indoor season come to a close and the Spring sports will be ushered in.

Both the track and swimming seasons end this week. Ice hockey has already stepped aside for the season and the skates and sticks are put away for next season.

The District 1 High School meet which starts Thursday and ends Saturday will be the last indoor track meet of the season. The swimming season also closes Thursday with the championship carnival at the Brookline Hill tank.

SCHOOLBOYS PREPARE FOR BASEBALL

Preparations are already being made for the baseball season. Nearly all of the coaches have called their candidates out for the preparatory training in the "cage." Weather permitting, the boys will be on the diamond by the first of the week and the real training for the first games will be in order. Many of the college crews have already enjoyed their first trial spins on the river, the freshman crew will not start for a few weeks. Interest in crew has increased considerably in the past few years and this season should be one of the successful ones for the school oarsmen.

The track athletes will be able to get a good test for the first cinder track meeting, which does not come before the middle of May. With the exception of the district schools, the schoolboy runners have already hung up their rubber-soled shoes for the season.

BILLY CAHILL VICTOR OVER YOUNG CHAKAS

Billy Cahill of Everett won over Young Chakas of Manchester, N. H., in twelve rounds at the Union Square A. C., Somerville, at a lively pace. Cahill's game gave him the edge, but Chakas made a good stand and scored many left hook cuts.

The bout between Harry Martin of Boston was a fast twelve-round contest, the former was awarded the decision. Jack O'Leary of Cambridge and Young Morris of Boston fought a six-round draw, while Neddo Flynn of Somerville stopped Young Clancy in the second round.

FRIEDMAN GOES AFTER MARTIN

Abe Friedman, the classy local bantamweight, wants to meet Terry Martin of Providence, for the New England bantamweight title. Friedman displayed his wares at the Commonwealth A. A. week ago Saturday night, outpointing and outslugging Roy Moore of St. Paul in nine out of twelve rounds.

Eddie Mack, manager of Friedman, is willing to post $500 with any sporting writer in Boston to go as a side bet that Friedman can whip Martin. The only stipulation Mack will make is that the Providence entry will have to weigh in at the bantamweight limit at 6 o'clock on the day of battle.

Martin has matched himself with Pal Moore of Memphis, who lost a referee's decision to Roy Moore of St. Paul a few weeks ago at Baltimore. Abe Friedman handed the St. Paul entry a hosting lesson here in this city, so why isn't a Friedman-Martin match a better card than a Pal Moore-Martin setup? The Boston entry for bantamweight honors is ready now to box any bantam in the country and would like nothing better than to get a crack at Jimmy Wilde, the English flyweight champ. If Wilde won't come to Boston, Friedman will be ready to tackle Pete Herman, Jack Sharkey or Joe Lynch.

C. A. C. TO HOLD SHOW ON THURSDAY NIGHT

This is a short week for the Commercial Club fans, as their regular show will be held on Thursday night, and Bob McKirdy has made a special effort to make the show one worth while.

In the main mass of twelve rounds Young Jack Johnson will meet Jack Reinault, champion heavyweight of Canada, which shapes up on paper as some bout. In the semi-final of ten rounds Greek Alzer of the North End battles Frank Gould of Brockton.

Young Kilbane, Woonsocket, vs. Young Shogrue, Brookline, and Toby Vincent, North End, vs. Young Ferrier, Woonsocket, make up the preliminaries.

RUSH FOR TICKETS FOR KLOBY-BRITT BOUT

The Britt-Kloby bout at Mechanics Building, Friday night, promises to be a big success, and a record for the last big show.

The demand for tickets for this bout is just as great as the Kloby-Murray bout. Lawrence will run a special train again, and New Bedford will also send a great crowd of rooters.

Both Kloby and Britt will be in excellent condition for the bout, and each expects to win decisively. Tickets may be secured at No. 216 Washington street.

Trinidad Asphalt Drifting

A SLOW and steady drift has been noticed in the semi-solid material of Trinidad's great asphalt lake. A recent attempt at sounding was stopped at 150 feet, and in the six weeks of boring the surface had shifted twenty-five feet. The drifting extended at least 100 feet downwards.

THE YOUNG DIANA

Story of Tense Mystery in Which Heroine Holds Key to Youth

By Marie Corelli

What Has Gone Before

Diana is the spinster daughter of well-to-do commonplace parents. The May family resides at Rose Lea, an estate on the coast of Devon. She overhears her parents discussing her age and declaring that she is in the way. She goes bathing and fails to appear for breakfast. Her clothes are found neatly folded near the water's edge. While there is mourning at Rose Lea, Diana is talking things over with her friend, Sophy Lansing, in London. She decides to answer the strange advertisement of a doctor who wants a woman of mature years.

"IT really seems the very sort of thing for me! At any rate I can but go and present myself as suggested, 'personally and alone,' to this Dr. Dimitrius at Geneva—and if he turns out an impostor, well!—Geneva isn't the worst of places, and I'm sure I could find something to do as a teacher of music, or a 'companion housekeeper.' In any case I'm determined to go there and investigate things for myself—and whatever you are good enough to lend me, dear Sophy, be sure I'll never rest till I pay you back every penny!"

Sophy threw an embracing arm round her and kissed her.

"If you never paid me back a farthing I shouldn't mind!" she said, laughing. "Dear Di, I'm not one of those 'friends' who measure love by money! Money and the passion for acquiring it make more than half the hypocrisy, cruelty and selfishness of the age. But all the same I'm not quite sure that I approve of this plan of yours—"

"My dear Sophy, why should you disapprove? Just think of it! Here am I, past forty, without any attraction whatsoever, no looks, no fortune, and nothing to look forward to in life except perhaps the chance of travel and adventure.

Never Go Back

"Do you mean to say that you'll never go back to the old folks?" asked Sophy.

"How can I, when I'm dead!" laughed Diana. "No, no! It would be too awful for them to see me turning up again just when I had ceased to be in the way!"

Sophy frowned.

"Selfish old brutes!" she said.

Diana demurred.

"No, don't say that!" she expostulated. "You must bear in mind that I've been a terrible disappointment to them. They wanted me to marry well—for money rather than love—and when I wasted my youth for love's sake, of course they were angry. They thought me a fool—and really, so I was! I don't think there can be anything more foolish than to sacrifice the best part of one's life for any man.

"He is never worth it—he never understands or appreciates it. To him women are all alike—one as good or as bad as t'other. The mistake we make is when we fail to treat him as he treats us! He is a creature who from very babyhood upwards should be whipped rather than spoilt. That is why he is frequently more faithful to his mistress than his wife. He's afraid of the one, but he can bully the other."

Sophy clapped her hands.

"Well said, Di! You begin to agree with me at last! Once upon a time you were all for believing in the chivalrous thought and tenderness of men—"

Can't Honestly Say

"I wanted to believe," interrupted Diana, with a half smile—"I can't honestly say I did!"

"No one can who studies life ever so superficially," declared Sophy. "Particularly the ordinary matrimonial life. A man selects a woman entirely for selfish purposes—she may be beautiful and he wishes to possess her beauty—or rich, and he wants the use of her money—or well-connected, and he seeks to push himself through her relations; or a good cook and housekeeper, and he wants his appetite well catered for. Or else for children—well!—sometimes he wants them and more often he doesn't—I remember what an awful row there was in the house of an unfortunate friend of mine who had twins.

"Her husband was furious. When he was told of the interesting event' he used the most unedifying language. 'Two more mouths to feed!' he groaned. 'Good God, what a visitation!' From the way he went on, you'd have thought that he had no share at all in the business! He didn't mind hurting his wife's feelings or saying hard things to her—not he! And it's the same story everywhere you go. A few months of delightful courtship—then marriage—then incessant routine of housekeeping, illness and child-bearing—and afterward, when the children grow up, the long dull days of resigned monotony; toothlessness, which is only partially remedied by modern dentistry, and an end of everything vital or pleasurable!

"Except, of course, unless you kick over the traces and become a 'fast' matron with your whole energies open on all men—but that kind of woman is always such bad form. Marriage is not worth the trouble it brings—even children are not unmixed blessings. I've never seen any I could not do without!—In fact!—and she laughed— "a bachelor woman with two thousand a year doesn't want a man to help her to spend it!"

Diana Sighed

"Quite true," said Diana, with a slight sigh. "But I haven't got two thousand a year, or anything a year at all!"

"Never mind!" said Sophy looked wisely confident—"you'll have all you want and more! Yes!—something tells me you are going to make a great success—"

"Sophy, Sophy! In what?"

"Oh, I don't know!" and the vivacious little lady jumped up from her chair and shook out her filmy skirts and floating ribbons. "But I feel it. It is one of those 'waves'—what do you call them?—'etheric vibrations!' Yes, that's it! I wish you feel those sort of things ever!"

Diana had also risen, and as she stood upright, very still, there was a curious look in her face of expectancy and wonder.

"Yes," she answered, slowly, "I felt one just now!"

Sophy laughed merrily.

"Of course! I imparted it to you! and you're going to be a wonderful creature—I'm sure of it! Your poor brain—so long atrophied by the domestic considerations of Pa and Ma, is about to expand!—to breathe!—to move!—to act! Yes, Diana!—Think of it Cinderella shall go to the Prince's Ball!"

Her bright laughter pealed out again, and Diana laughed too.

"Come and see your room," went on Sophy. "You're here at any rate for a day or two, and I'll keep it as secretly and preciously as a saint in a shrine. Youve no luggage? Of course. I forgot!—I'll lend you a nightie!—and you must buy a lot of clothes tomorrow and a box to pack them in. I'll see to it for you to go abroad without any luggage. And I'll help you choose your garments, Di!—you must have something really becoming!—something not after the taste of 'Pa' or 'Ma!'"

"Am I to make a conquest of Dr. Feodor Dimitrius?" asked Diana, playfully. "One would think you had that sort of thing in view!"

"One never knows!" said Sophy, shaking a warning finger at her. "Dr. Dimitrius may be hideous—or he may be fascinating. And whether hideous or fascinating, he may be—amorous! Most men are, at moments—and in such moments they'll make love to anything feminine."

A GLASS to tell the truth to us. So then the little dainty girl, who thinks she's just a little pink of cheeks and boyish and neat; her darkened eyes, just barely alluring, would know that the girl people saw was a deep-dyed little cubist design, that her hair was merely "wild"—her lips dark blotches—her eyes dark patches surrounded by black sticks; could see herself just as we others see her. But nobody has a glass like that.

Humoresque

Screen Version Novelized by Jane McLean

Fannie Hurst's Story in a Tense Film Drama Featuring Alma Rubens

Watch for It in Motion Pictures

"Humoresque" is a Cosmopolitan production. Scenario by Frances Marion, direction of Frank Borzage. Presented by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft picture.

IF he had said in so many words that the image of Gina Berg was before him he could not have conveyed more plainly what prompted His words. They cut short their stay in the cottage and came back to the New York suburb, conscious of vague unrest, and yet unable to tell how to dissipate it.

Hancock had come rushing from the West at the first news of the conflagration, and his anxiety was the reflected anxiety of all the rest of the world. He wondered what effect it would have on music. "People won't want to be listening to violins," said Leon, "with the noise of big guns in their ears."

"You bet they will". Hancock insisted, "it's just what they will want—they'll want to get away from war and everything it stands for—wait and see—don't fool yourself."

And the great question came cropping up; "I wonder if we'll get into it?"

The battle of words raged pro and con. "It's an impossibility". Abraham asserted. "I'm for letting them fellers fight it out. What should it be to us, I ask you?"

View Disproved

It didn't look then as though it could be very much to America, 3,000 miles away, but the march of events disproved that view. Every hour the insolence of Kaiserism brought nearer the inevitable day when the Stars and Stripes must be joined to the flags flying for freedom on the seas and lands of the world.

That was the visionary day that Mama Kantor dreaded—the mere thought made her sick at heart. To have fled from the hand of oppression to the land of freedom, and then after all to be drawn into the quarrels of the unjust; she shuddered more than once as she pictured the possibilities made every day more like probabilities by the trend of the news.

German propaganda was all about them, and Abraham, trying to reconcile the idea of fighting for Russia, gave up in despair. "No son of mine," he said boldly, "lifts a finger for those devils with a knout."

He had felt the whip on his bare back while the Cossack laugh burned in his brain, and the mindless child was with them like a reminder.

Leon glanced over an evening paper and his face lighted as he read. No need to tell Mrs. Kantor that Gina Berg had sailed for New York. She picked up the paper after him. "Money, money!" she said, "it does anything—I see our Americans here they pay a thousand dollar for a cot bed on a liner—what's a thousand to Sol Berg?"

"He could charter a whole boat," answered Abraham, "wait till they come to him for subscriptions to help The Little Father.'" He laughed at the thought; Solomon Gilsberg's experience in agitating Russia were not such as to fade from his mind so long as he lived.

The arrival of the first liner bearing Americans from the war zone was an event of first page importance. Thousands of eager relatives crowded the dock and stood far into West street.

Among them was Leon; he had said nothing to his family or to Hancock, who kept an eye on his goings and comings; he waited like the rest of the world in the hope of catching a glimpse of Gina. And his labor was for nothing; Sol Berg used his open sesame and Gina was among the first to step down the gangway and into the closed car of the man who a few short years ago was selling brasses in the Ghetto.

Friendly Interest

A dozen similar cars went by; Leon looked and looked in vain. When he returned home toward evening he was welcomed with a burst of friendly interest. Gina Berg had been there with her father—and seemed disturbed not to see him.

He found it difficult to control his expression. Mama Kantor was watching closely. "What did they want?" he asked bromidically.

"They wanted you," said his mother.

"How did they get out here so soon?"

Abraham furnished the answer: "That was a big car," he said, "and it was going—zip," he made a motion with his hands, "she is good-looking, that girl, better as I expected."

"She's a snob," broke in Esther suddenly, "she hardly looked at me."

Esther's definition of snobbishness took always a personal form. Leon passed over the opinion in silence.

"They were going through," Mrs. Kantor explained, "to Morristown, and they stopped because she remembered I told her where we lived—very nice of her Leon, not so?"

Leon mumbled assent and changed the subject, but the spirit of unrest was upon him and Hancock observed that practice hours which should have been as sacredly kept as a doctor's prescription were being cut.

And then the virtuoso quietly motored to the big show place in Morristown and announced himself.

Gina came down to meet him in the big sun room and felt the reason for his coming. They shook hands warmly, after the manner of friends who understand.

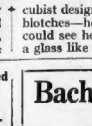
"AS you were!" saith the Beauty specialist—and behold, it is done!

At twenty, it is his love of love; at thirty, his love of adventure; at forty, his love of companionship, and at fifty, his love of amusement—but each time a man always mistakes it for his love of a woman.



It takes several trained nurses, a lot of tutors and a college full of professors to equip the average gilded youth—to marry a chorus girl.

A man is mentally so ambidextrous that he can read his newspaper with one set of brain cells, while he carries on a conversation with his wife with another set.

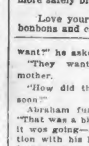
A woman's guesses as to what is detaining her husband when he is "working late at the office" have been reduced from four to three since prohibition. The only ones left are a poker game, another woman—and the bare possibility, of course, that he MAY be "working late at the office."

Though her every other charm may fade, a woman can still work the charm of Circe, with a beautiful voice and an eternal smile.

Everybody loves a lover—especially the florist, the confectioner, the jeweler, the taxi chauffeur and the restaurateur!

So long as he keeps within the LAW, a man may break the commandments as lightly as he would a lover's vow; but a woman may far more safely break all the laws than one social convention.

Love your enemies as a fat woman loves HERS—sugar, ice cream, bonbons and cream puddings!



"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

AURORA

A VERY unusual name and yet one extremely prevalent in European countries, whence it has penetrated America, is Aurora. It signifies "the dawn," since Aurora was the mythological personification of the break o' day. Her name comes from aurum (gold) because of the golden light she sheds before her. Aurora as the goddess of the dawn appears in all legends and was attached by the Greeks to their Eos, whose rosy fingers unbarred the gates of day.

When the Cinque-cento made classic lore the fashion, Aurore came into favor with the fair dames of France and has ever since continued in vogue there. Occasionally, it passed into Germany as Aurora, where his first famous woman of that name was Aurora von Kleinanseck, mother of Marshal Saxe. In Syria, both the dawn and the proper name were called Zora and, as a mark of endearment, Zorana.

Aurora has persisted in spite of the canon prohibiting the giving of the names of the heathen gods in baptism. Like most mythological characters, she is a Latin divinity, since Latin names were used throughout Europe and only comparatively modern criticism has endeavored to distinguish between the distinct myths of the Greek and Latin races. Most mythological names, including Aurora, have their vogue in France and England, which are most under the dominance of fancy with regard to names.

While no verses of note have been addressed direct to Aurora, she is a favorite subject with the poets who find her personification much more fanciful and romantic than the mere word "dawn." She is poetically represented as rising out of the ocean in a chariot with rosy fingers dripping dew. Keats was specially fond of referring to Aurora, and our own beloved Longfellow made frequent mention of her.

Aurora's jewel is the chrysolite. "The chrysolite of sunrise," wrote Shelley. To exert its power, the amber gem should be set in gold. It is said to have the power of dispelling evil spirits if worn on the left arm. When dreamed of, it signifies "caution necessary." Aurora's lucky day is Monday and 6 is her mystic number.

The Two Voices

CHAPTER XLII.

HUGH lay still, smiling happily. Could he have seen his companion's face his smile would have died away.

For, like him, she was remembering the evening on which Hugh and Doris had attended the concert which he had just mentioned. She —Ruth—had been there, too. Will Dayton had asked her to go with him, but she had declined.

She had not then analyzed the motives for her declination. Now she understood them.

She had refused Dayton's invitation because she wanted to be alone, to think her own thoughts.

Yes, today she faced the truth. The news of Doris' and Hugh's engagement had been a shock to her. But when she had listened to the beautiful "Souvenir" that night she had felt that, after all, she need not be alone in a world so full of music. She had closed her eyes and let her spirit drift away on the waves of melody.

And now here was Hugh telling her that "Souvenir" was dear to him because Doris and he had heard it together!

Her heart cried out that she loved this blind man—loved him more than when he could see. Had she loved him like this when he became engaged to her sister, she might not have been able to bear the pain.

Yet she must bear it if Doris decided that, after all, she would marry Hugh Rodney.

Ruth's fingers wrung each other cruelly. The price she must pay for her friendship for this man and her loyalty to her sister was greater than she anticipated.

Ruth smiled bitterly. "If Doris changes her mind—as we expect and hope—and marries him, I will be only a sister-in-law to him. For he shall never know what I have cost. I will not throw him over, I shall always be a vile thing in his eyes."

"Why are you so silent, dear?" Hugh asked suddenly.

"I was thinking," she replied.

"So was I," he laughed joyously. "And I'll wager we were both thinking of the same thing—our love for each other.

She did not reply. After a minute, he continued:

"Now, I am going to ask you to sing for me. I am not going to tell you what to sing, but I am sure what it will be."

"What?" she asked breathlessly.

"Your heart would tell you anyway," he affirmed confidently, "just as it told you to play for me just now. You remember the little song I used to quote to you."

"No, dear, I don't," she began, but the change that came across his face warned her to finish her sentence with, "I mean, I am not in very good voice today."

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma, or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much more effective cough syrup than you could buy ready made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

Sure Death to Corns

"Gets-It" Makes 'Em Lose Their Grip and Lift Off Painlessly.

The first thing "Gets-It" does when it lands on a corn or callus is to snuff out the pain. Then it shrivels the corn or callus and loosens it.

Soon it is almost ready to fall off. You help it just a little by lifting it off (wrist, thumb and fingers). You don't even feel it because there is no hurt left in it. Then you have only to cleanse, surest, safest and most pleasant method.

"Gets-It," the never failing, guaranteed 60-cent-a-bottle corn cure, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Mfd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache, sick headache, dizziness, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Advertisement.

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong—According to Dr. Lewis

Guarantee to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 15 days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses. Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overwork, tired eyes, which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my lone distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonably time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting them. Some of the many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two or four times daily. You should notice how your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy and one which many eminent people throughout the country are using and widely prescribing. In fact, I have used it in my own private practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or unfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in cases of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family. Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, with a list of ingredients on the package. The manufacturers guarantee to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent. in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by the leading druggists.—Advertisement.

After Firm Start Exchange Issues Become Irregular; Curb Had No Feature

After quiet but strong opening, the Boston market was affected by the reactionary influence which developed in New York during the first hour. At the end of that period here it was irregular. Highest was one of the most active stocks and sold at a new high for the year. It did not have to advance far to gain this distinction however. Carson Hill was prominent also and was up more than two points before mid-morning. Other issues much in evidence were American Oil & Engineering and Davis Daly. Copper had a heavy tone and New England rails receded. Amoskeag went a point on a single sale.

Among issues to show fractional gains were American Woolen preferred, Stewart, Ventura, Ohio Body, Swift & Co., Utah Consolidated and Waldorf.

Boston & Maine and Mullins Body receded a point during the morning, while Copper Range, Old Dominion, American Telephone, Elder, Wickwire, Gray & Davis, Waldorf and New Haven showed smaller losses.

CURB MARKET WEAK.

The Curb market was rather weak at the opening and was dull as well. No feature marked early trading. White Oil was the only high priced issue of its kind to make an early appearance. Silvers were the most active class. Issues to advance at the opening included Arizona Extension, Arizona Silver, Universal Silver, Cascade, Ophir, Hecla and White Oil.

Weak stocks included Mutual trust, Hudson, Silver Reef, Texana and Black Hawk.

At 11 o'clock White Oil had receded from its higher and was up but ⅛ at 32 cents, while Imperial was showing 5 cents gain at 35 cents. Declines included also Gadsden 2¾ points at 90 cents, Arizona Extension 1 cent at 11 cents and Universal Silver 3 cents at 33 cents.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, March 23.—March contracts sold up to 42.80 at the opening of the cotton market, an advance of 125 points, and a new high record. Trading in this position was limited to a few hundred bales, but shorts found difficulty in selling even this small amount. Later months were firm at a gain of 5 to 20 points at the outset on buying by Wall Street, the South and commission houses. Part of the purchasing of the latter evidently was for new long account. The market, however, relied firm after the start, showing net gains of 10 to 28 points on active months, opening prices were: March, 42.50; April, offered 40.25; May, 38.60; July, 37.92; October, 32.60; January, 31.45; March, 31.32.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, March 23.—Corn opened 9c to 11c lower, Oats were 3c to 5c lower, Opening prices were: Corn—May, 1.57⅞ to 1.58⅜; July, 1.54⅛ to 1.55. Oats—May, 87¾ to 87⅞; July, 80¼ to 80⅝.

City and Town Loans

REMARKABLE OPPORTUNITY FOR BIG RETURNS!
U. S. Government Experts Endorse This Marvelous Invention.
Its Market is World-Wide. Cash In On It!
The United States Manufacturing Company, of Springfield, Mass.,
Makers of the Lawrence Universal Machine Gun Mount
Offer at Par a Limited Allotment of Capital Stock
Par Value $10 Capital $250,000
Organized Under the Laws of Massachusetts

The United States Manufacturing Company has been formed to make and sell the Lawrence Universal Machine Gun Mount, a remarkable invention which has been tested under conditions found in actual warfare and has received the hearty endorsement of United States Army and Navy experts, also The Thos. A. Edison Naval Consulting Board of Ordnance under the direction of Hudson Maxim.

The Lawrence Machine Gun Mount is far superior to any other mount in that it permits the gun to be fired through nearly as wide a range as though aimed from the shoulder—raised, lowered, deflected, or aimed vertically for anti-aircraft firing. No other mount allows such flexibility of movement, combined with perfect stability and accuracy of fire.

Both the U. S. Navy and U. S. Marine Corps have already placed orders for the Lawrence Machine Gun Mount. These are now being delivered. So vast an improvement is it over other mounts that the market for it, both with the U. S. Government and foreign governments, is practically unlimited. The U. S. Army alone needs 50,000 mounts.

The investor who subscribes to United States Manufacturing Company stock at $10 a share can be reasonably certain of reaping a rich harvest. Here is your opportunity!

Send now for prospectus containing full information and official reports on this wonderful invention.

IT'S WHITE AND $1.00

The NEW SAFETY PAPER people feel pretty stuck-up this morning. Every one of us sees a profit of 5 points, part of us have 10 points profit and over half of us have 50 points profit. The value of NEW SAFETY PAPER has increased 100% in 14 months. It is selling today at $1.00 because of the cash paid in. Did you ever buy anything and see it double in value? If you bought NEW SAFETY PAPER you are realizing the musical sound which money makes when it talks to WHITE people. If not, you want to buy some and get a new experience—the sensation of backing a new Boston Industrial based upon a wonderful chemical discovery, sound to the core, safe as the crops, and WHITE as snow.

If you want a gamble and an even chance to lose your money don't buy NEW SAFETY PAPER.

If you are a satisfied five-percenter, don't buy NEW SAFETY PAPER.

BUT If you want to boost Boston, help establish a new industry of the Gillette variety, and make money in the WHITE way, buy NEW SAFETY PAPER at $1.00 and hold it until it goes to $10. By that time nobody could pry it away from you, as the earnings yearly will equal what it cost you.

You will only have a few days to investigate at this price.
Get busy; INVESTIGATE; invest. It's the WHITE thing to do.

STEELS ACTIVE AND LOWER

Following a Strong Start the Market Trend Is Downward

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, prices then being near the lowest. The trend was downward most of the morning, although the market displayed strength at the beginning. Steels were weak and motors irregular at the end of the forenoon, while oils snowed losses.

Most of the active tobaccos moved upward. There were some strong issues on the list, including Kelly Springfield, General Motors and Stutts. Trading was not so active as it was yesterday, first hour transactions totalling less than 300,000 shares. The renewal rate for call money was per cent.

ADVANCED AT THE OUTSET.

The market had a strong start, but in the case of most issues the advance was not large. Among the strongest were Crucible, General Motors, Baldwin, Superior Steel and Mexican Petroleum. They were up from one to more than five points on first sales. U. S. Steel and Republic Steel were fractionally lower. Rails had a quiet beginning, but those first traded in showed gains. Coppers were as quiet as usual and without class trend. Studebaker was the weakest motor in early trading and Middle States receded the most among oils. Shipping issues were a strong group. Demand was not insistent, and after overnight buying had been completed and short covering ceased to be a factor prices eased off.

RALLIED AFTER DECLINE.

At the end of half an hour the market had passed through a period of irregularity into the weak stage. Stutz was one of the exceptions, advancing to a new high record price. Retail Stores and Tobacco Securities were strong also. Near the end of an hour there was a rally and General Motors recovered its loss and sold above its opening figure. Its directors meet for dividend action on Thursday and a local financial publication says they will at that time order a substantial increase in the dividend rate of $12 per annum upon the common stock. "In all probability to a $20 basis," it is stated. As regards trading sentiment, one statement from New York read: "Many of those who have been in touch with the leading stocks which have been most active for some time past continued to talk in a most bullish manner last night, predicting higher prices for the various issues which have been forced into such prominence.

Another opinion is: "The broadening of trading in steel certainly is an indication that the market may be entering the semi-final stages of the rise, when stocks ordinarily advancing in a group at the end of a long rise."

NEW ISSUE

130,000 SHARES

Alvarado Mining & Milling Company
(of Maine)
CAPITALIZATION
Authorized 1,200,000 Shares Issued 350,000 Shares
Par Value $20.00 Per Share

The Company has no bonded indebtedness except $51,000 First Mortgage Bonds remaining from an authorized issue of $1,000,000, the retirement of which will be effected on July 1, 1920. It has no notes or preferred stock. After giving effect to the present financing, the Company will have net quick assets in excess of $2,000,000 for the further enlargement of its operations.

The Company was organized in Maine in 1910 and is protocolized in the Republic of Mexico. The property is one of the world's great silver mines. Production for 1918 and 1919 was in excess of 2,000,000 ounces of silver each year.

The Company maintains a large engineering organization for the investigation of mining enterprises throughout the world. It will be noted that there are 850,000 shares unissued, which remain available for the acquirement and development of additional properties.

A. J. McQuatters, President of the Company, who has successfully developed and operated the property for the past ten years, will continue to direct its affairs. Mr. McQuatters introduced modern mining and milling practices in the Parral District of Mexico, and was the pioneer in northern Mexico in the treatment of ore by the cyanide process.

After a thorough investigation, under the direction of W. Rowland Cox, mining engineer, covering a period of six months, the Mexican International Corporation has taken a substantial stock interest in the Company and is represented on the Company's Board of Directors.

The following are excerpts from a summary by President A. J. McQuatters from his letter to the bankers

Properties and Location: The Company owns four groups of mines, namely, The Presena Group, The Palmilla Group, Las Cruces-Cabadena Group, and Las Animas Mine, which, including mill site, comprise approximately 700 acres, situated in the District of Parral, State of Chihuahua, Republic of Mexico, within five miles of the City of Parral and 517 miles by rail from El Paso, Texas. The property is fully developed construction, and are operated by hydro-electric power purchased under contract. Further than the above, the Company has recently acquired the Terrenates Mine, which has a vein extension of 1000 feet on the Veta Colorada ledge and is located about 2000 feet from the Company's Presena Group.

Ore Reserves: The ore reserves estimated as of November 21, 1919, by Franklin W. Smith, a mining engineer, amount to 2,086,000 tons of positive ore of an average grade of 9.2 ounces silver, and 2,592,000 tons of probable ore averaging 8.7 ounces silver, a total of 4,678,000 metric tons of an average grade of 8.9 ounces silver. He considers that there are also excellent possibilities for the development of additional ore over and above that now in reserve, not alone in the Presena Mine, but in other properties of the Company in the Parral District, particularly the Palmilla Mine.

Development on the lowest level shows that high grade ore occurrences, similar to those previously mined above, will likewise form a part of the tonnage to be hereafter mined below. A grade of 12 ounces is expected in this horizon, with consequent larger profit from such ore.

Production: The Alvarado Mining & Milling Company began operations in 1915 and up to the first of the current year produced 923,000 tons of ore, containing approximately 15,000,000 ounces of silver and 12,500 ounces of gold.

During 1919 the plant operated the equivalent of 333½ days and milled 176,005 metric tons of ore. This yielded 2,038,736 ounces of silver and 1,591 ounces of gold, equivalent to a yield per ton of 11.6 ounces of silver and 0.01 ounces gold. Ore treated in January, 1920, was 17,168 tons, and in February in excess of 18,000 tons. The construction programme, now under way, calls for an increase in the capacity of the plant to

CLAIMS BEER IS 'GONE FOREVER'

Commissioner Kramer Also States That Light Wines Will Never Return

Light wines and beer are gone, never to return, while whiskey has been conceded a thing of the past by both "wet" and "dry" forces, according to John F. Kramer, United States prohibition commissioner, who has full charge of the enforcement of the Volstead Act.

Commissioner Kramer, who is in Boston for conference with Daniel F. O'Connell, prohibition director for Massachusetts, stated that sentiment throughout the Middle West on this whole is strongly opposed to any compromise with the "wet" forces, and that only "wet" of the European States are attempting to get light wines and beers.

"Hotel managers and persons operating under victuallers' licenses will not be held responsible for persons drinking liquor in their places of business. However, the parties who are carrying the stuff are liable to arrest for transporting it, unless they have a prescription," declared Commissioner Kramer.

"Whether the final settlement of light wines and beers will be left to the various States to ratify is a decision which the Supreme Court has not as yet rendered.

"Women are more strongly opposed to liquor than are the men. It is from them that the majority of our letters flagging our office as to the location of illicit stills come.

"Men who were caught with a large stock of bonded liquors when prohibition took effect have but one means of disposing of them. That is for medicinal purposes—unless the government takes over all stocks of bonded whiskies. This action is very probable."

PARK JITNEY SERVICE DEMAND IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, March 23.—The trolley-jitney controversy is revived here in the action taken by the Lawrence City Council, which has notified the trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway that public necessity requires motor transportation to and from Victory Park, an amusement dance hall. It is contended that auto transit is the only means of reaching the park. According to the jitney ordinance in such instances the city must give the street railway company the first opportunity of providing such motor transportation.

Democrat Mayor of Oldtown

Oldtown, Me., March 23.—Ira E. Charles P. Smerick, aged fifty, Democrats of Oldtown, defeating his opponent, Alfred J. Keith, by a plurality of 23 votes. The city has heretofore carried three of the five wards.

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Let England Be Just, Not Jealous, And Amity Will Not Be Strained

Nothing could be more terrible, more deplorable and more unpardonable than a war between the United States and Great Britain.

This newspaper and its editor have opposed all war and would be particularly and especially opposed to war between these two great English-speaking countries.

There is, to be sure, not as much English blood in the people of the United States as there is blood of other European nations, and Mr. Hannen Swaffer—whose article is printed on this page—is, of course, in error when he assumes that the American people are of English blood.

The American people, however, are English-speaking people, and through the influence of language and literature are in many respects closely associated with the people of Great Britain.

But whether the peoples were so associated or not, a war between two great nations that are leaders in the civilized advancement of the world, in the progress of the arts and sciences, and in political and industrial development, would be an immeasurable calamity and an inexcusable one.

War between these two great countries, nevertheless, has occurred in the past, and it is wholly possible, therefore, that war may occur again if, as Mr. Hannen Swaffer says, a bitter hatred is growing between the peoples of these two nations.

Those of us who earnestly desire to avert such a world-wide calamity—and that includes a vast majority of the people of America and probably a vast majority of the people of England—should consider the situation thoughtfully and endeavor to devise means for dissipating any misunderstandings which exist and bringing about better feeling, based on perfect fairness and EQUAL justice.

Mr. Hannen Swaffer is an Englishman, former editor of the London Times, and probably as well fitted as anyone to state accurately the sentiments of the British public.

He says that "millions of Britishers loathe the United States and most of the things it stands for."

If that is true—and it seems to be true judging from Mr. Swaffer's own statement, and from the accounts which our soldiers bring back from abroad, and from the utterances of many of England's public men, and from the editorial declarations of many of England's newspapers—then it would seem that there is in that very attitude of "millions of Britishers" a reason why Americans should distrust and dislike England.

For if millions of Britishers can "loathe the United States and most of the things it stands for" just after the United States has rescued England from utter annihilation by the Teutonic armies, and has conferred upon England the greatest benefit that one nation could possibly bestow upon another, then what hope is there of the people of the United States ever being liked or even justly appreciated by the people of England?

We can never do any more for England than we have done for her; we can never hope to deserve her good will any more than we deserve it now; and if she hates us and loathes us in spite of all we have done, what ground is there for us to love her, and what reason for further benefiting her?

There is not the shadow of a question of a doubt that this United States of America saved England from conquest and the British Empire from destruction and dismemberment as complete as that which has fallen upon Germany.

No American claims that the United States alone won the war.

But every intelligent American, and every intelligent Englishman, too, knows that the power of the United States, thrown into the scales against Germany at the critical moment, defeated Germany and saved England from subjugation.

Englishmen may deny now the dangerous condition that they were in and their desperate need for the aid which the United States freely rendered, BUT NO ENGLISHMAN DENIED IT AT THE TIME THAT THE DANGER WAS MOST IMMINENT.

In fact, the British envoys to this country to secure American aid loudly proclaimed the dire distress of England, and positively declared that unless the United States came to the rescue, and came speedily, the cause of the allies was hopelessly lost.

The United States did go to the rescue in response to this frantic appeal, did send her navy to supplement that of Britain, did send millions of her young men with all their fresh vigor and enthusiasm and indomitable energy and determination, did send millions upon millions of money, did supply immense amounts of munitions of war, and did contribute the forces and the resources which turned the tide and won the war.

Under such circumstances, is it not astonishingly ungracious and ungrateful for millions of Britishers to "loathe the United States and most of the things it stands for," to be wholly unappreciative of what the United States did, and even to deny that the United States made any considerable contribution toward winning the war?

How can any Englishman travelling in the United States expect to find the people of the United States particularly friendly to the people of England if the people of England feel as he says they do toward the people of the United States, after this nation has rendered so signal a service to England?

"How can good feeling between the two nations be developed as long as the people of England feel this way toward the United States?

And what is the reason that the people of England entertain this hatred and loathing for "the United States and most of the things it stands for?"

What are the things which the United States stands for that cause the people of England to hate us and loathe us?

To be perfectly frank, the hatred is probably due to the prosperity that we stand for, the wealth, the commercial and industrial development, the menace to England's control of the sea and domination of the world, the injury to England's pride, the peril to England's pocket.

We cannot very well avoid being prosperous and successful just to please England, although we have gone a good way toward avoiding it by excessive liberality to European nations, including England.

But the vigor of our people, the wealth of our country and the favorable conditions which have befallen us have made us and will continue to make us the most prosperous and successful nation in the world.

So if we continue to be prosperous and powerful and a rival of England in world leadership, we must remember that England has always, in the centuries past, first become furiously jealous of any nation that rivalled her in power and prosperity, and eventually made war upon that nation with a view to reducing its power and destroying its prosperity and removing it as a competitor of the British Empire.

Realizing these facts and observing this jealousy—or, as Hannen Swaffer calls it, "hatred and loathing"—of the United States which is developing in England, it is but natural that the people of the United States, being a rather intelligent and discerning lot, should begin to withdraw the favor which they had lately lavished upon the English and to regard the English with disfavor and distrust.

There are one or two other reasons why the people of the United States are beginning to feel some resentment towards England.

One of the reasons is that our people commence to realize that the English have trepassed upon our good nature.

They have borrowed billions and then tried to avoid paying even the interest on those billions.

They have spent immense sums in building their own naval fleets and building and buying great commercial fleets, in maintaining armies, in cornering coal and oil, and yet have posed as too poor to pay their honest debts or even the interest on them.

The people of the United States are willing to be generous and good-natured, but they do not like to be imposed upon. They do not wish to be considered the Patsy Bolivar among nations.

Another thing that has caused resentment over here is the effort of England, through propaganda and through the direct effort of their official representatives, to interfere in our local political and public affairs; to try to control our public men, to try to secure the nomination of presidential candidates and other candidates favorable to England; to try to run our country and our country's government against our own interests, in a manner which the English people would not tolerate for a moment should any representative or agency of ours endeavor to intermeddle in their affairs.

If the American feeling of friendship and good-fellowship toward England of a short year ago has changed to distrust and antogonism, THERE IS A REASON.

And if Mr. Hannen Swaffer is really anxious to avert misunderstanding between the two nations—and we have no doubt that he is—he should find out what that reason is and try to remedy it.

The reason is mainly to be found in the attitude of his own people, according to his own description.

The attitude of the American people generally, and of this American paper in particular, is simply one of unwillingness to be run by England. UNWILLINGNESS TO BE USED BY ENGLAND FOR HER ADVANTAGE AND FOR THE DISADVANTAGE OF OUR OWN NATION.

If England will be just and not jealous, she will find America sufficiently well disposed toward her.

But if England takes the attitude that we must not succeed in commerce and industry and national development without offending her, that we must not even win the America Cup or triumph in the Olympic games without "causing more trouble," we cannot hope to be friendly.

Because the American people are not willing to play second to any other people or to be subservient to any other nation.

Now that this outrageous League of Nations proposal, which emanated from Great Britain, is definitely defeated and dead, and England has lost the hope of using our money and our men to fight her battles and guarantee her conquests, it may be possible that she will cease trying to "work" the United States, and come to a realizing sense of the situation, and be fair and honest in her dealings with us.

If she should do so, there is no reason why the two nations should not proceed in perfect amity, if not in absolute accord.

This paper will always favor such an international friendship with England or with any other nation when the United States does not have to sacrifice its principles or its interests to secure it.

"Millions of Americans Hate or Despise England, Millions of Britishers Loathe the United States"

—By Hannen Swaffer—

Former Editor of the London Times

By Arrangement with the London Daily Herald

London, March 21.

THERE is no use blinking the fact that millions of Americans either hate or despise England and that millions of Britishers likewise loathe the United States and most of the things it stands for. The war with Germany started with peace conditions just like that.

I have just returned from a tour of half of the States of the Union, during which I talked with thousands of people, including senators, millionaires, famous preachers, world renowned film stars, actors, musicians, judges, waiters, workingmen of all sorts and descriptions. I am now choosing deliberately a newspaper which circulates almost entirely among thinking workmen and women in order to publish this grave and urgent warning.

I WAS lunching at the Bankers' Club in New York two weeks ago with a multi-millionaire whose name is famous even in the smallest town in Europe.

"The Americans came into the war, they thought, with the unselfish chivalry of the Crusaders," he told me. "They think they won the war for Europe; but now they are astonished to find themselves loathed by the very European nations they think they saved. And every day American newspapers tell them Britain has come out of the war more powerful than ever. The ideals they talked of are forgotten, except when some English paper sneers about the ideals they turned into solid cash."

THERE is the powerful journalist, William Randolph Hearst—the northcliffe of America—who would die happy if war between Britain and the United States should break out. His newspapers, morning after morning and evening after evening, printed, too, right across the continent, ezz of the American public to a hatred of Britain, of which war is the only logical conclusion. Nor is he alone in this calumny.

The New York Daily News, a newly started imitation of our own Daily Mirror of London, said just after Carpentier's victory in London:

"As fighters the English are no good. As Anatole France said after the Beckett fight, 'Nobody home!' or as our own Henry Cabot Lodge remarked, 'fat-footed hams!' They're bums. The English cannot fight, they never could fight and they never will be able to fight."

WE are accused by the American press of objecting to their belief that America won the war for us. We are accused of using the money we owe the United States for building a navy to compete with theirs, the only one, they say, which is strong enough to fight ours.

We are accused of preaching self-determination and practising oppression, both at once. And the deuce of it is that it is true. Winsor McCay's cartoons illustrating all these things are unfortunately so brilliant both in conception and draughtsmanship that they turn my indignation to deep regard.

And what about our Englishmen? Here is Horatio Bottomley preaching to millions of readers every now and then a similar doctrine of hatred of America and Americans. A Western senator said to me:

"Bottomley is only a demagogue!" That's not the best thing about him, but the worst. He writes what millions of workingmen merely think.

THE hands across the sea are full of dollars, I know, but why did the Bystander devote its whole number of last week to reminding us about it? The only way to right the rate of exchange is to save and work, not sneer. A description of this Bystander number and its score of cartoons sneering at America was cabled to New York. What America will think, I hesitate to say.

A great American preacher, a man of unimpeachable character and honesty, told me last year of dining with a Britisher whose name is often on everybody's lips and who, when coffee came and he was in his cups and in truthful mood, said:

"I've been trimmed in Wall Street, and I'm going to devote the rest of my life to creating trouble between Britain and the United States."

This man's influence is enormous, and he has great possessions.

"WHY do you hate England?" I asked a telephone girl in one of New York's most fashionable hotels.

"Because I'm half French and half Irish. The French and Irish all hate England," was the astonishing reply, obviously meant for an inquiring American.

Lincoln Day this year was used definitely as an anti-British occasion by newspapers and orators who earn their living that way. Lincoln's phrases warning against European influence and statesmanship were read and heard everywhere.

This is only one instance of many I could name, only one case of thousands in which old misunderstandings are fanned into a semblance of flame and hate.

ON my last night in New York I was in the manager's office of the Metropolitan Opera House when my friend, Morris Gest, came in and said: "I'm glad there's an English journalist present, because I want to ask him why the London press sneered at 'Tea for Three' when it was produced in the Haymarket Theatre, because it was an American play."

I said: "You're wrong if you say that of the London press. Maybe some paper or another asked why we had to go abroad for plays of a type we could write quite as badly at home, which is true; but talk about it as a general press attack is nonsense."

On my return to London I find "Tea for Three" with "House Full" boards outside; but the poison of Morris Gest's remark is still spreading along Broadway.

DO not be led into the idea that the British and American democracies have anything more in common than Park Avenue has with Park Lane.

The race for the America's Cup will make things worse. The Americans will win, of course. Lipton's tea goes faster in water than his yachts. When he loses there will be more jeering. They like Lipton very much over there, but they mightn't if he won.

The Olympic games will cause more trouble, as they did in London. The Americans will win, of course. Our great athletes nearly all died in France.

It would be better if international sports were stopped. Peace was lost on the playing fields of Eton.

ON both sides of the Atlantic—I speak now as one of the hardest workers for that Anglo-American friendship which I believe to be the greatest hope of the stricken world—there are Anglo-American societies which are supposed to bring about understanding, but which, so far as I can see, only give certain people cheap knighthoods and free advertisement. They do nothing except make speeches and are then made knights for it.

These societies are hotbeds of dissension themselves. If you do not believe me, read this letter sent by ex-President Taft, joint president with Arthur Balfour of the English-Speaking Union, to Major Putnam, secretary of the American branch, on December 4, 1919:

"My Dear Major Putnam: I greatly regret that I cannot be present at the meeting of the committee of the English-Speaking Union on Saturday of this week. I would like to be at the meeting to protest in every way possible against the methods pursued by Mr. Gardiner in seeking to remove you from the secretaryship and leadership of the committee of the union both. It would be an act of great injustice and gross ingratitude to remove you from your present position.

"I do not hesitate to say that if the plan of Mr. Gardiner succeeds it will put the union under such management, as evidenced by the methods pursued, that I could no longer remain in the union, and would immediately resign the presidency.

"Sincerely yours,
"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

IF this sort of thing goes on in a union of stalwart Anglo-Americans, can one wonder that our opponents—those who would make a transatlantic understanding impossible, those who would make war between the two English-speaking peoples possible—have things all their own way?

Workingmen, do you realize the grave importance of my warning? It is time some one told some truth even now that the war is over.

The British and the Americans are not friends. How can you and I help to stop them from becoming enemies?

Blood is thicker than water and it makes a much worse mess when anybody spills it.
